Kentucky's Authorities
Begin Immediate Probe
After Fatal Attack on Ex-Lieutenant-Governor

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Sept. 20. (P)—The case against Kentucky's portly Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt, charged with the murder of his fiancée, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, came to a spectacular end tonight in a fusillade of bullets.

The 61-year-old former Spanish-American, Mexican and World War veteran fell with seven bullets in his body and Mrs. Taylor's three brothers immediately surrendered to Patrolman Jephtha Tracey. Tracey said that Roy Garr admitted firing the fatal shots. He with Jack and Dr. E. S. Garr were placed in jail.

Denhardt was en route to New Castle, Ky., where he was to have been summoned tomorrow for his second trial on the murder charge. The names of the brothers were not immediately learned. Amys said he did not know which of them fired the fatal shot.

The shooting, Amys said, occurred on the steps of the Armstrong hotel.

Leader in Kentucky.
Denhardt, bald, portly and 61, was a former lieutenant governor and adjutant general of Kentucky. As a Kentucky national guard commander, he recently participated in military maneuvers at Fort Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Taylor, attractive widow of LaGrange, Ky., was shot to death near New Castle last November during the course of an automobile ride with the general.

Denhardt claimed Mrs. Taylor took her own life because of objections by her family to her marriage to the general.

Denhardt, a veteran of three wars, lawyer and newspaper publisher, had led a stormy military life.

Parsons Says Wife,
Long Missing, Is Dead

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (P)—William H. Parsons, whose wife disappeared June 9, last, from the parsonage, Stony Brook (Long Island) farm, announced he believed her dead.

In a statement read to newsmen at the office of Parsons' attorneys, the social-registerite farmer said: "I am satisfied from the letters I have received that my wife is no more. The writer of these letters seems very anxious to relieve my distress. It is a cruel thing to keep me in suspense."

"I find it absolutely necessary to leave the scene of this sad tragedy. I am preparing to dispose of my home. I shall, however, not give up hope that the persons who have knowledge of where my wife's body may be found will give me the little comfort of being permitted to give my wife proper burial."

Mrs. Parsons left home with two strangers on June 9, according to her housekeeper-companion. She has not been seen since. A note demanding $25,000 for her return was found later.

Justice Beck Will Resign; I. S. Peebles Tendered Post

'Grand Old Man' of Georgia
Bench Announces Decision to Rivers.

Associate Justice Marcus W. Beck, "grand old man" of the Georgia supreme court, notified Governor Rivers last night he would tender his resignation at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Isaac S. Peebles Jr., prominent Augusta attorney and former state senator, was offered the appointment to succeed Justice Beck, but withheld his decision, expected late this afternoon.

When Justice Beck resigns this morning after 32 years on the bench, he will become the first judge to retire under the terms of a new state law permitting retirement as an "associate justice emeritus" with two-thirds pay. He also becomes the first member of an advisory appellate council to consult with the courts, attorney general and committees of the general assembly on court and legal problems.

No Personal Conference.
Peebles was offered the justiceship by telephone last night by Governor Rivers. He announced he would accept or decline in a letter written to the Governor this afternoon. There will be no personal conference, he said, since he is occupied in court this week.

The ex-state senator would give no indication as to his decision, saying he had several things to consider before he could issue any statement.

Justice Beck could not be reached last night for a statement. For the past 15 years, the colorful legal expert has retired nightly at 7:30 o'clock and risen about 5 o'clock. It was understood he resigned because of ill health.

Provided Peebles accepts the appointment, he will hold it only until the next general election in 1938, when Justice Beck's successor will be elected.

COUNCILMEN SPLIT WITH HARTSFIELD

Group Refuses To Hear
Mayor Advocate Grant of License to Agency.

Sharp rebukes and stinging criticism were exchanged between Mayor Hartsfield and city council yesterday afternoon in the first rupture of the harmony which has marked the Hartsfield administration this year.

The break came when Mayor Hartsfield was refused the privilege of addressing council on the matter of an application for a permit from a detective agency.

Councilmen Rebuked.
Hartsfield, smarting under the refusal, wrote a sharp letter to council, rebuking councilmen for failing to co-operate in an effort to bring additional business to Atlanta.

"The mayor's letter is an insult to every councilman," Alderman Roy E. Callaway declared on council floor.

"In my opinion, he should run the mayor's office and let us run council," said Callaway.

A proposed ordinance to remove Hartsfield from membership on every council committee came from Alderman Robert Carpenter immediately following, but at this suggestion, Councilman J. Allen Couch, who led the fight against the detective agency, came to the aid of the mayor.

"The mayor has never interfered in any committee and I have served harmoniously with him on several," he said.

Hartsfield is a member of all committees by legislative act and cannot be removed by council. The Carpenter paper was referred to the ordinance and legislation committee.

DEMOCRACY'S CRY SOUNDS TO LEGION

Lehman, Hull, Pershing
Speak as War Chief Is Recalled by Ex-Fighters

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (P)—In the high emotion of two decades ago, the American Legion was called today to fight again—for democracy, for liberty and for peace.

Twenty thousand men, out of the khaki of an older and more stirring day, sat in Madison Square Garden's lofty auditorium to open their 19th annual convention—and the memory of a war President dead now this half a generation was stirred again in what the speakers said.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, welcomed them, but not as men with a job all done since the eleventh day of November of 1918.

As Woodrow Wilson had cried out to them 20 years ago that they must "make the world safe for democracy," Lehman summoned them anew to an old campaign.

"We still have a great principle of democracy and liberty for which we must fight."

"For God and country,"—he quoted the Legion's constitutional preamble—"we associate ourselves together to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy."

He went on to talk of the quality of tolerance; of the old Rhode Island code—"all men might walk as their consciences persuaded them, every one in the name of God."

But now, he said, this ancient

Charity Gets Bulk of Mellon Riches; Servants Bequeathed $180,000

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20. (P)—The bulk of the vast fortune, estimated between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000, was bequeathed to the A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust.

While the bulk of the estate was directed to the educational and charitable trust, the state's tax experts said Pennsylvania would collect up to 10 per cent of the fortune.

The percentage, they explained

The "bug" continued to operate in Atlanta yesterday, despite reports to the contrary, Atlanta police declared last night.

They seized an alleged "pick-up" man with 101 ticket books, representing the "bug writing" of 101 writers during the day.

Officers said the tickets represented more than $1,000 played on the New York bond sales figures for yesterday.

MACON TELEGRAPH REFUSES 'BUG' TOTAL

MACON, Ga., Sept. 20. (P)—The Macon Telegraph tonight refused the request of an East Point man to supply him total bond sales figures daily.

Atlanta newspapers have ceased publishing the exact figures used by some lottery operators.

A telephone call came from an East Point man who requested the newspaper to wire him daily the necessary figures for the lottery pay-off.

Ben B. Johnston, managing editor, said: "The Telegraph is running a newspaper and not an adjunct to a gambling service."

Two persons were placed under arrest yesterday on lottery charges, one being the alleged "pick-up" man, who was captured by city officers on Hunnicutt street after a foot race. The other was arrested by county officers.

Witnesses Questioned.
In the meantime, Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews questioned nearly a dozen witnesses in preparation for the grand jury investigation of graft and organized crime, which gets under way officially.

Cash To Be Distributed on October 1 Indicates City's Sound Prosperity

More than $5,000,000 in dividends will be distributed October 1 to stockholders of corporations whose headquarters of operations are in Atlanta or adjacent territory of which Atlanta is the center.

This eclipses last year's dividend payment mark by approximately one and a half million dollars, it was estimated yesterday. Incomplete figures compiled by Courts & Company, investment securities concern, indicate that this year's payments will set a new peak of the boom days of 1927 and 1928.

Several corporations are not represented in the tabulation due to the fact they are on a semi-annual dividend basis. Their profits are distributed in January and July.

Mr. and Mrs. Public Sign Up for Drivers' License

Thousands of Atlanta and Fulton county drivers must file application for drivers' licenses within the next 30 days, so reads the new Georgia license law, or take safety examinations for their permits to drive. Shown above are four who applied early, signing application blanks yesterday morning at the courthouse. They are, left to right, Mrs. A. O. Hayes, Mrs. J. P. Upshaw, E. E. Aiken and Emmett Quinn. First license issued went to Governor Rivers, second to Emmett Williams, Georgia's No. 1 safe driver.

F. D. R. WILL START TALKS IN WYOMING

Itinerary of President
Reveals First Speech at Home of Court Bill Foe.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 20. (P)—President Roosevelt will open his west coast speaking trip with a train platform talk Friday morning at Cheyenne, Wyo., home town of Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, one of the leading opponents of his supreme court enlargement plan.

A tentative itinerary for the two weeks' swing announced at the summer White House late today also lists two more appearances in Wyoming the same day, one at Wendover and the other at Casper.

Will Visit Canada.
The trip also includes a visit by naval destroyer from Seattle of Victoria, British Columbia, where the President and his official party will be luncheon guests September 30 at the mansion of Lieutenant Governor Eric W. Hamber.

The President already had announced he would speak October 5 at Chicago on his return trip.

Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre said except for an address at Boonville dam, on the Columbia river near Portland, Ore., September 28, the President would deliver "no formal major speeches."

The President will travel the central route on the way to Seattle.

Wilkins Reported Safe By Explorers' Club

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (Tuesday.)—The Explorers' Club said this morning that Sir Hubert Wilkins, unreported for 36 hours while searching for the missing Russian flyers in the Arctic, was again in radio communication and apparently not in trouble.

By telephone Captain W. R. May, Canadian Airways superintendent at Edmonton, Alta., told the club Wilkins reported landing his huge flying boat safely on a small lake in the Mackenzie delta, somewhere in the vicinity of Aklavik.

Word of his landing was received as a Canadian Airways plane piloted by Arthur Rankin prepared to take off from the Aklavik airport to search for the noted explorer and his party.

The radio messages were resumed after a 36-hour silence which began when the radio on Wilkins' ship faded just as he announced he planned to land at Aklavik after hours of flying in clouds and fog.

Captain May told the Explorers' Club the exact location of the lake on which the plane landed was unknown.

Rivers Pays $1 To Get First Auto License

200,000 Forms Sent Out by Highway Patrol in Fulton and DeKalb Counties.

The first dollar for the new State Highway Patrol came yesterday from Governor Rivers when he drew driver's license No. 1.

Clement E. Sutton, legal advisor for the public safety department, collected the money and State Trooper R. V. Richards, of Augusta, delivered the license at a brief ceremony in the Governor's office.

Good for two years, the license is 3.6 by 2.4 inches on cloth photographic permanent record paper, and is a photostatic copy of a part of the application form.

Sutton said 200,000 of the forms were made available at filling stations throughout Fulton and DeKalb counties and that they will be sent to other sections under "a stagger system" within a short time.

Requirements for every driver to show his license on demand of a trooper will not be enforced, he explained, until "every driver in every section of the state has had the opportunity to make application."

Forms are not being sent to all sections of the state simultaneously, he declared, to avoid congestion in receipt of applications in Atlanta. Applications will be accepted by mail only to the patrol headquarters here, and no one except the headquarters staff is authorized to accept money for the licenses.

Downing Musgrove, Rivers' executive secretary, was presented

U. S. TRADE PACTS CALLED PEACE AIDS

Hull, Eden Plead for International Co-operation
To Avert Disastrous War

By the Associated Press.
President Roosevelt's reciprocal trade program was described as a world peace maker yesterday in speeches by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, as both statesmen pleaded for international co-operation to avert the threat of a disastrous war or a European economic catastrophe.

Speaking before the Boston Conference on Distribution, Secretary Hull told the group that the world needed "a reign of law rather than unlicensed force."

Secretary Eden, addressing a hushed League of Nations assembly, commended the United States for the "vigorous, consistent campaign against world trade obstacles" and offered to abate preferential tariffs in British colonies when they seemed unfair and restricted international commerce.

Eden warned the Fascist powers that Britain is committed irrevocably to a policy of rearmament unless other nations cease competing for supremacy of arms.

As the American and English statesmen made their pleas for peace, the United States agreed to send Leland Harrison, minister to Switzerland, as representative to the League of Nations' advisory committee opening tonight to consider the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Animals of 'Lost World' May Tell 10,000-Year-Old Evolution Story

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., Sept. 20. (P)—A safari of science to the wild life of isolated Shiva Temple.

A message today from Dr. Anthony, who is accompanied by George Andrews, son of Roy Chapman Andrews, said he had not yet trapped "the specimens I want" but expressed confidence the expedition would succeed. The scientists, who ascended the perilous trail Thursday, plan to stay atop the mesa a week or ten days.

The scientists believe they are the first persons to scale the 7,500-foot peak in at least 1,000 years. Artifacts found in the saddle between the formation and the north rim of the canyon indicated, said Don Louis Schellbach, assistant park naturalist, that a people perhaps different from any other found in Arizona may have inhabited the Grand Canyon about 10 centuries ago. NANKING, Sept. 21. (Tuesday.)—(P)—Seventeen American civilians under the leadership of J. Hall Paxton, second secretary of the United States embassy, took refuge in the legation today as a Japanese warning to flee the city expired.

Fast fighting craft were turned up at the military air-dromes and human and mechanical observers scanned the sky with eyes and ears for the first approach of the Japanese bombing squadrons.

Bombproof underground shelters were scooped out of the numerous hillside and dug in vacant lots, practically every private house had prepared its own refuge.

By C. YATES McDaniel.
NANKING, Sept. 20. (P)—United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson said his staff evacuated the embassy tonight to take refuge from Japanese air bombs aboard an American patrol boat in the Yangtze river.

Johnson reluctantly transferred the embassy to temporary quarters aboard the patrol boat Luzon after Japan's navy had warned that Japan intends to devastate the Chinese capital. All other foreign embassies remained, at least temporarily.

Evacuation of the United States embassy staff began after the third Japanese air raid on this city of more than 1,000,000 population within two days.

40 Are Killed.
The raid, in which 40 homes were demolished and at least 40 civilians were killed, beat Japan's own deadline, noon Tuesday, set in a warning to Americans and others to evacuate Nanking.

Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commander in chief of the Japanese third fleet in Chinese waters, has advised foreigners here that Japan would launch a large-scale bombardment of Nanking after noon, Tuesday.

Hasegawa's warning urged that United States and other warships move "at least 11 miles upstream." Japanese officials declared Japan would not accept responsibility for loss of foreign life.

Johnson supervised hurried packing of embassy documents

U. S. ENVOY FLEES CHINESE CAPITAL

and material preparatory to moving up the Yangtze to Wuhu, about 30 miles from Nanking.

"I am too unhappy to speak," he said. "For the first time in 30 years of service I am forced to leave my post, but I am doing it under instructions from Washington. I cannot risk the lives of the members of my loyal staff."

"I am not deserting. I hope to return to Nanking by automobile during my enforced absence.

"Furthermore, the U. S. S. Luzon or U. S. S. Guan (another American patrol boat at Nanking), which also is going to Wuhu, can reach Nanking within a few hours if an emergency requires."

Of Nanking's peacetime American population of about 230, only 11 will have remained, none of them children and only four women. The men include five missionaries, myself and another newspaperman.

All others, totaling only 18 men and eight women, will have been moved to safety up the river by the time Japan's deadline arrives. The decision to move the United States embassy staff from danger came after Ambassador Johnson conferred lengthily this morning with his subordinates while the roar of Japanese air bombs dinned across the city. The final decision was deferred until the last moment.

No Abandonment.
(State Department officials at Washington emphasized that the staff's removal did not mean that the embassy was abandoned but only that it was temporarily transferred afloat. The Luzon and the Guan had been kept at Nanking for just such an emergency, officials said.)

(Johnson's staff at Nanking includes six United States foreign service officers, an American clerk and 13 Chinese employees. The main embassy is maintained at Peiping, the former capital of China.)

(In the only similar incidents in recent United States history, the American minister to Ethiopia withdrew temporarily from his Addis Ababa legation during the Italo-Ethiopian campaign and, at present, United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers is at a temporary embassy in France because of the peril at Madrid.)

Some Nanking officials expressed resentment at Johnson's decision, contending that he should have remained as a gesture of loyalty and sympathy for China's cause in the conflict with Japan.

U. S. Acts Alone.
The United States embassy acted alone. British, Russian, German and Italian officials stayed, and British and French naval commanders warned the Japanese they would be held to strict account for any loss of life or property damage suffered by their nationals. Neither Germany nor Russia has warships here.

Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, advised the Japanese that the Luzon and Guam would protect American lives and property. In a note to Hasegawa, he requested the Japanese admiral to instruct his raiders to "avoid" United States vessels at Nanking, declaring it was "necessary for American warcraft to be there."

French and British naval commanders also declared their warships would stay in the Yangtze off Nanking as long as their embassies remained open or their nationals needed protection.

British Are Independent.
The British told Hasegawa that

Perennial Frosh Problem Pops Up

Tech frosh lost their first tilt with Emory first-year men yesterday to DeKalb county police. Approximately 25 Tech freshmen invaded the Emory campus, bent on obtaining "rat caps" and less licks in "rat court."

The Emorys saw them coming—or at least someone did—and called DeKalb police. The Techs were rounded up, taken to police headquarters and warned not to bother other persons' property.

No arrests were made.

The Japanese ultimatum left them too little time for compliance. They added that Japanese had been given marked maps, indicating the location of the British embassy and there was, therefore, no need for them to leave Nanking.

For three hours, droves of Japanese plans came over in relays, bombing the city almost continuously and inflicting the heaviest damage of any bombardment of Nanking in the undeclared war.

The systematic daylight raid began when a squadron of six Japanese bombers, flying in a close wedge, dove to about 3,500 feet over the center of the city and loosed a rain of explosives.

Apparently, their objective was the headquarters of the central Chinese government. But they missed.

From the center of the city, the first Japanese airmen wheeled in widening circles, methodically touring the whole metropolitan area. Their primary mission on the outskirts evidently was to reconnoiter. They dropped only occasional bombs and did little apparent damage in outlying districts.

But when they disappeared, others swiftly arrived in greater numbers, fast pursuit ships darting among massive bombers which dropped scores of projectiles on the approaches to the capital. Its defenses suffered a terrific pounding.

Anti-aircraft batteries on whom fell the brunt of the defense against the air raiders, brought down one Japanese ship in flames. Chinese pursuit planes that chased the invaders miles outside the city were reported officially to have accounted for three others.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his military aides calmly faced the Japanese warning of more bombings to come. Elaborate anti-air raid defenses have been created for the capital and an emergency plan drafted to move it elsewhere if Nanking becomes uninhabitable.

Officials intimated, meanwhile, that Nanking has an air defense trump still to play. They asserted that the inactivity of central Chinese air squadrons in the past two weeks has been due, not to reverses, but to the desire to conserve its strength for defense, especially of the capital.

Officials said China was forced to curtail her use of aviation fuel because of the partial embargo imposed by President Roosevelt on shipments of supplies from the United States.

MEANS NO SLIGHT.
U. S. OFFICIALS SAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. (P)—American officials took pains today to make clear that the departure of the United States ambassador from Nanking was no slight to China.

Dispatches from Nanking had said that the ambassador's action had aroused resentment among Chinese, who believed it indicated a lack of respect for the Chinese cause.

STAY GRANTED NEGRO IN 'SCOTTSBORO CASE'

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 20. (P)—The Alabama supreme court granted today a stay of execution in the 16-year sentence of Heywood Patterson, negro convicted of rape in the "Scottsboro case" pending outcome of an appeal to the United States supreme court.

Patterson was sentenced to 75 years' imprisonment on conviction of participation in the mass rape of Victoria Price, Huntsville white woman, on a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., in 1931.

When they came back later, the lock was gone.

Another was obtained until the real lock could be repaired.

and political career in his native Blue Grass state.

He was elected lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket in 1923 and later served as adjutant general during Governor Ruby Laffoon's administration, resigning that office when Governor A. B. Chandler was elected. He held the rank of brigadier general in the Kentucky national guard.

While serving as adjutant general, Denhardt led military investigations in Harlan and Kenton counties during labor troubles.

He saw service in the Spanish-American War, at the Mexican border and in the World War. He was cited by Major General Hunter Liggett for his service at St. Mihiel.

Was Also Publisher.
He was associated with his brother in publishing the Times-

Journal at Bowling Green, Ky., where he was born March 8, 1876. In earlier life he served as prosecuting attorney at Bowling Green.

Denhardt was a graduate of Ogden College, now defunct, at Bowling Green, and received his law degree from Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn.

He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, a member of the Masons, Red Men and Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

Denhardt's wife, the former Miss Elizabeth Crane, of Scottsville, Ky., died several years ago.

ATTORNEY WITNESSES SHOOTING OF DENHARDT

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Sept. 20. (UP)—The fatal shooting here tonight of Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt was witnessed by his attorney, Rhodes Myers, with whom the former lieutenant-governor was walking. The gunman stepped from a shadow and fired simultaneously, Myers said.

Myers recognized the assailant and pleaded with them not to shoot, the sheriff's office reported. Denhardt dropped where he stood, seven bullets in his body, at least one through the heart.

Myers said the general attempted to escape his assailants. "We started diagonally across the street," Myers said, "when we saw them coming from an auto parked just across the intersection to our left."

"The shots were fired almost as soon as we saw them. The general started to run toward the hotel and I ran to the right to try to get behind a parked auto."

"Several more shots hit the general just as he reached the hotel steps."

"The men came over to me then and the one with the gun was going to shoot me. I threw my hands up and called him by name."

"Don't shoot me," I pleaded with him. "I haven't done anything. The other two kept him from shooting me."

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Men over 40 are preferred to their younger rivals for executive and selling jobs by New York city's foremost group of sales executives, the members of the Sales Executives' Club.

These men represent some of the nation's largest businesses. Their report will be made tomorrow at a meeting of the club to which are invited members of the American Legion who are campaigning on behalf of more work for men over 40.

Eighty per cent of the members of the Sales Executive Club reported they preferred men over 40. The survey was made by Charles C. Stech, research specialist of New York city.

The reasons for preference of older men, in order of importance, were:

1. They are likely to turn out more production.
2. More likely to be conscientious about those phases of work hard to check up.
3. More likely to be open-minded toward criticism.
4. Likely to undertake unpleasant assignments more willingly.
5. More likely to bring in new ideas of value.

The sales executives who preferred young men gave as their first five reasons in importance: Enthusiasm and cheerfulness, more prompt adaptability, more care in personal appearance, promptness in getting into a new type of assignment, and initiative.

ARKANSAS TACKLE IS ELECTROCUTED

Lundy Corbett Is Discovered in Dormitory.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 20. (P)—Lundy Corbett, 21, of Walnut Ridge, star 215-pound tackle on the University of Arkansas football team, was found dead tonight in his room at a dormitory, the victim of an electric shock.

Physicians called in a vain attempt to resuscitate him, said he apparently had been electrocuted by a loose connection on a bed lamp in his room.

Corbett was lying on the bed with his leg over a radiator. Fellow students theorized that he was attempting to repair the light connection when the charge went through his body.

There are three types of mahogany—West Indian, tropical American and African. The first is ordinarily considered the best.

COMMUNITY CHEST NEEDS WILL BE SET HERE TOMORROW

Directors To Scan Report of Executive Committee; Long Study Near End.

Amount of the needs to be met in the fifteenth annual Community Chest campaign will be arrived at tomorrow at a meeting of the full board of directors of the Chest.

The executive committee met yesterday to consider the report of the budget committee of the Chest on the needs of the 33 agencies, and then announced tomorrow's meeting. This committee has been working with the boards of directors of each agency since last April in an effort to determine the exact need.

Those who attended the meeting included Harry Sommers, general campaign chairman; T. Guy Woolford, president of the Chest; Alvin B. Cates, last year's campaign chairman; George K. Seiden, chairman of the budget committee; Lewis D. Sharp, treasurer; Legare Davis, director of public relations and Boyce M. Edens, executive director.

Complete Report Expected. The committee scanned the reports of the budget committee and the boards of directors of the 33 agencies to make up their recommendation to the Chest directors. Their report will not be complete until tomorrow.

In their statement yesterday members of the executive committee said:

"Most careful consideration and effort have gone into the study of the needs to be met in this campaign. The study began last spring when social security legislation was passed. At that time the directors of the Chest began efforts to determine the effect of this legislation on the work of the Chest agencies. This effort is still going on, but enough has transpired to make it fully apparent that the load on the Chest agencies will not be appreciably lightened.

"The Social Welfare Council, conducting a careful survey with public officials and directors of the agencies affected, reported the total ultimate lightening will be about 6.6 per cent and added that every agency affected had a long waiting list of persons in need.

All Possible Eliminated.

"As the campaign period approached, the board of directors of the Chest asked the more than 600 directors of the 33 agencies to study the needs of their agency with greatest care. These studies were made, and the needs of the agencies certified to the budget committee. They in turn made their studies and eliminated every possible dollar from the total.

"The budget committee's report was then taken up by the executive committee for further study and this consideration will be continued tomorrow by the entire board of directors.

"Many hundred prominent Atlanta citizens, who serve as directors of these agencies, have had a part in this careful study of human needs to be met. The final result will not be an arbitrary figure, but a carefully arrived-at statement of the necessary amount to serve the community. It will represent the minimum amount to be raised in the campaign."

Heads of the 33 agencies of the Chest, who, with their directors, certified the need of each agency to the Chest board of directors include:

FINGERPRINTS TRIP ESCAPE FROM GANG

'Alibi' Shattered for Talbot County Fugitive.

Fingerprints shattered the alibi of W. E. Bolton, Talbot county chain gang fugitive, yesterday and he was held by city police for return to the gang.

When arrested on suspicion by Detectives E. D. Meek and D. C. Vaughan, Bolton maintained his name was "Blackstock." Captain S. W. Seabrook, of the Bureau of Identification, compared fingerprints. Bolton then admitted his identity. He was arrested at the corner of Whitehall and Garnet streets.

Bolton escaped the Talbot gang Saturday in a county truck and headed for Atlanta. The truck was recovered here Saturday. He was a trusty, serving 12 months for auto theft.

PAPER EXPORTS CLIMB IN YEAR

$2,639,486 Value Reported by Atlanta Office.

Exports of paper and paper products from the United States during July reached an aggregate value of $2,639,486, according to figures released yesterday from the Atlanta office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

This amount represents a decrease of 6 per cent compared with the June total, but is 31 per cent higher than the amount recorded for July, 1936, the report showed.

Heavy increases took place in shipments of such products as newsprint, book papers, writing papers, paperboards, sheathing papers, bags and boxes. Exports of newsprint again passed the 2,600-ton mark, exceeding the July, 1936, shipments by nearly 300 per cent, figures revealed.

SCHILLING TO REMAIN IN ATLANTA CHURCHES

The Rev. Charles F. Schilling, canon of the Cathedral of St. Philip, and rector of the Church of Our Saviour, has declined a call to St. John's Episcopal church, Tampa.

A native of Georgia, Mr. Schilling became canon here in 1935, later assuming the rectorate of the Church of Our Saviour. Before coming to Atlanta Mr. Schilling had been rector of St. Mark's at Dalton and the Church of the Ascension, Cartersville.

GEORGIANS URGED TO PUSH HOUSING

Rivers Points to $52,600,000 Available for State Under Federal Program.

Hope that Georgia counties and municipalities will take "full advantage" of $52,600,000 available to the state for slum clearance and low cost housing projects was expressed yesterday by Governor Rivers after he had notified Secretary Ickes that Georgia is now ready to proceed with the housing projects.

"There is a mistaken idea that only the larger cities are eligible to participate in the program," the Governor said, pointing out that every town and county in the state is eligible.

"By the very nature of the case there is a wider opportunity for Atlanta to obtain the money than from other cities because of the greater need for housing," he said.

"However, our law was so written that every town and county is eligible to participate and we hope to spread the program in every community having housing problems among people in the low income brackets."

The Georgia Housing Authority, set up by the recent legislature's authorization, will open offices within a few days at the state capitol, Governor Rivers said. George B. Hamilton, state treasurer, is chairman of the housing board.

The authority, created by the 1937 general assembly, will conduct a promotional campaign to acquaint all municipalities and counties with provisions of the program and will lend aid in obtaining projects, Rivers declared.

"I regard the program as one of the most wholesome which could be undertaken for the reduction of crime and disease and an increase in education," the Governor said.

"In every city, there is a 'ring' of slums, generally a section between the main business district and the residential district.

"Elimination of these will go far toward eliminating breeding places for crime and disease. The program touches society at a vulnerable point, and is a movement which I believe is just in its infancy."

At a recent meeting, called by Governor Rivers, the Georgia Municipal Association unanimously agreed to push the movement to obtain Georgia's share of the federal funds available.

Under the housing plan, the government pays 90 per cent of the cost and the municipality 10 per cent.

BLACK ROW DRAWS VARIED SOLUTIONS OVER WASHINGTON

Resignation or Impeachment
Probes Suggested as Capital
Waits Return.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(P) Washington, while awaiting some word from Associate Justice Hugo L. Black on his alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan, is receiving a flood of suggestions for dealing with that situation.

Much depends, of course, upon what, if anything, Black himself has to say upon his return from Europe later in the month. To date he has studiously avoided reporters and declined to comment.

The proposal most frequently discussed, and one resting upon the assumption that the case against Black has been proved, would have the President demand that the justice resign. Several critics of Black have suggested this.

Some Defend Black.
On the other hand, some prominent persons have gone to the defense of Black. Senator Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, said he voted for Black's confirmation and would do so again "because I know he is honest and able."

Apart from the proposed demand for Black's resignation, a second suggestion, advanced by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, would have the chief executive appoint an impartial commission to investigate the evidence and reach a conclusion on the charges.

Impeachment Mentioned.
A third idea is the uncommon course of impeachment. Chairman O'Connor, of the house rules com-

Thieves Disregard Invitation on Safe

Despite a sign on the safe reading "not locked," vandals broke into the strong box at the Colajac Company, Inc., of 512 Marietta street, N. W., during the week end, obtained nothing but wrecked the office, police reported.

City Detectives H. F. Williams and J. O. Corley estimated the damage at $1,000.

Employees yesterday said the multigraph and check-writing machines were smashed, the safe battered, a dictaphone broken and a coffee grinder damaged. Records were strewn over the floor and ink was smeared on desks. Entrance was gained through a side window.

mittee, has said that, by request, he is canvassing house sentiment with regard to such action, but has not said what he has found it to be.

A fourth idea, unrelated to the Klan charges, would have the court appoint a lawyers' committee to determine whether Black is technically eligible for court membership. This suggestion was made by Patrick Henry Kelly, a Boston attorney.

IMPEACHMENT THREATENED IF CHARGE IS PROVED
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(P) Representative Pettigill, Democrat, Indiana, said today that if Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black were found to be a member of the Ku Klux Klan he would vote to impeach him.

DAVENPORT POGUE, STOCK BROKER, DIES

Native Atlantan Will Be Buried in West View This Afternoon.

Davenport Pogue, New York stock broker and native Atlantan, died Friday at his summer home in Vineyard Haven, Mass., after an illness of four years. He was 47 years old.

Only his butler and cook were with him when he died, his wife, the former Miss Mary Carter Stewart, of Leesburg, Va., being at their winter home in Bermuda at the time.

He had left active business in Wall Street since his extended illness but had maintained connection in the brokerage firm of Bauer, Pogue & Company, which he helped found.

Son of Minister.
Born in Atlanta, son of a Presbyterian minister and the former Miss Madge Ellis, of Atlanta, he moved with his family to New York as a child, not returning to Atlanta until after the World War.

Prior to the war he had been a jewelry salesman. When the United States entered the war he enlisted in the aviation corps, serving overseas in that branch of service the duration of the conflict.

He lived in Atlanta during the years 1919 and 1920, being resident manager of the brokerage house of Imbrie & Company.

When that firm failed he went to New York, and entered the brokerage business there, rising through the successive steps which led to the formation of his own company.

Interested in Yachting.
An enthusiastic sportsman, he was interested in yachting, owning at the time of his death the yacht Broadview. He was a member of the New York Yacht Club and the Edgartown, Mass., Yacht Club.

In addition to his homes in Vineyard Haven and Bermuda, he maintained a residence in New York city.

Surviving in addition to his wife is a sister, Mrs. Donald Arrow-smith, of Short Hills, N. J. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Spring Hill by Dr. Richard Orme Flinn. Burial will be in West View cemetery, under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

F. D. R. WILL START TALKS IN WYOMING

He will leave here at 3 p. m. (Atlanta time) Wednesday, traveling via Chicago and Omaha, but making no appearances until the train reaches Cheyenne.

The party will detain for a motor trip to Yellowstone National park, where the President will spend Saturday and Sunday, boarding the train Sunday afternoon for Boise, Idaho, via Pocatello, arriving next Monday morning. He will motor through the city, home town of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, and out to inspect the Owyhee dam 75 miles away.

Arriving at Bonneville the morning of September 28, he will motor to the dam for a speech, then drive to Mount Hood to inspect the timberline camp, and on to Portland, Ore., and Vancouver, Wash., where he will again board the train late the same day.

He will reach Seattle that night and go directly to the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger, where he will remain over September 29 and leave the morning of September 30 for Victoria aboard a destroyer.

No Public Appearances.
Except for drives about the city, the itinerary calls for no public appearances or speeches in Seattle.

4 'Unknowns' Rest In Oakland Graves

The graves of four unidentified persons have been discovered in Oakland cemetery, it was reported yesterday.

Fletcher W. Laird, secretary of the board of trustees of Central Lodge No. 28, I. O. O. F., reported that the four "unknowns" are buried on lots owned by his organization.

There are no records in possession of the organization or the sexton which tell the identity of the persons buried in the "unknown graves."

Laird yesterday asked city council to bear the cost of removing the bodies from the I. O. O. F.'s lots. The matter was referred to the parks committee, which has jurisdiction over the city-owned cemetery, for consideration.

A general check-up of all graves and property in the cemetery is now being conducted by WPA.

Mrs. Roosevelt will accompany the President. The rest of his immediate party has not been announced.

Deer of North Georgia Will Break Into Movies

North Georgia deer are breaking into the movies.

A newsreel company will make pictures tomorrow of a herd of deer in the Chatahoochee National forest, Clint Davis, of the United States Forest Service, announced yesterday.

Pictures will include capture of the deer in the Pisgah fawn farm in North Carolina, transportation by truck to the Chatahoochee National forest, and the deer's first capers in the mountains of north Georgia, Davis said.

BRUNSWICK MAPS MOTORCADE PLANS

Banquet Here To Climax
Day Friday; Troopers
To Escort Party.

Brunswick will celebrate completion of its new paved link to Atlanta with a motorcade and banquet here Friday night when Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield, members of the State Highway Commission and other state officials will be guests of honor.

The party, numbering 25 Brunswick cars with others to be picked up en route, will be escorted to the Atlanta city limits by state highway patrol troopers and will be met by a detail of Atlanta motorcycle police.

Leaving Brunswick at 8 o'clock Friday morning, the party will travel through Jesup, Baxley, Hazlehurst, McRae, Eastman, Hawkinsville, Perry, Macon, Jackson and McDonough to Atlanta, a distance of 293 miles, expected to require nine hours of steady driving, not counting an hour for lunch at Macon.

Returning the party will travel by Jonesboro, Griffin, Barnesville, Roberts and Port Valley, a distance of 284 miles. The party will leave Atlanta at 6 o'clock Saturday morning.

Brunswick arrangements are in the hands of Ray H. Hall, managing secretary of the board of trade. Other officers are A. M. Harris, president; T. L. Huston, first vice president; R. A. Gould, second vice president, and I. M. Aiken, treasurer.

Boys Outnumber Girls in Schools Of Fulton County

Fulton county schools this year will have more boys to educate than girls, a final enrollment checkup showing a total increase of 730 white and 980 negro school children revealed yesterday.

"Upon investigation of boys and girls, we find 690 more boys in school than girls," Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, said. He offered no explanations but said this sort of thing is "rather unusual," pointing out that in the past girls have always outnumbered boys.

County high schools showed an increase of 347 students—making a total of 4,732 this year as compared with 4,385 last year. Elementary schools increased from 11,717 to 12,100, an increase of 383.

Heaviest increases are found at Fulton high school, with an enrollment of 1,306, which this year shows an increase of 108 over total number of students registered last year.

The greatest difference in boys and girls in favor of boys is found at Perkinson school, with 144 boys and 96 girls, Wells said. Out of the 54 white schools, 37 have more boys enrolled than girls, the superintendent said.

"Since there are not enough girls to go around, the boys are going to have to do unusually well to be in favor with the girls this year," he said.

Negro schools enrollment increases, Wells attributed to reduction of school fees and the free textbook program. However, about 250 are accounted for by the fact that five schools opened earlier this year than last, he said.

NEW JERSEY VOTES

Primary Today Names
Gubernatorial Choice.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20.—A primary election campaign, in which Governor Hoffman's administration was a major issue, will be decided by a half-million odd New Jersey voters tomorrow.

While United States Senator Moore, unopposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, watched from the sidelines, the two Republican candidates for the governorship closed their campaigns.

State Senator Clee planned to make a tour tomorrow of election districts in Hudson county, where he charged "orders are out" for many Democrats to turn "on day Republicans" and vote for his rival, Senator Powell.

His method is to steal mail from open slot boxes and if letters contain checks, he cashes them by forged indorsement or calls upon a prospective victim, inspectors reported.

Life Begins At 40

An Office Worker Nearly 40 Took Courage to Spring From a 15-Year Rut Into a Glamorous Life of Travel and Culture

FIFTEEN YEARS in dull office work. She was nearly forty. Would she never have a chance to see the world?

Suddenly she realized that she had been waiting for someone else—for Fate—to bring her a new life. And that SHE was the one who must build it herself.

She was practical enough to realize she must WORK her way—so what did she do? She studied the countries she longed to see. She investigated jobs she could fill, and applied for them; with the result that she was able to visit country after country.

She lived in these countries, came to know their people—as no hasty tourist can.

Few know Europe's art galleries better than she, or have caught more of the strange fascination of older civilizations. Few have gathered more of life's real riches.

No Necessity for ANY Woman Over 40 to Gather Moss

It is almost a rule that women over 40 find themselves somewhat at a loss. That intense every-minute-need of them is gone—with their children grown up and their husbands more firmly established.

Most women have wanted time in busier days to do ONE PARTICULAR THING. It may be cultural—it may be social—for every woman it will be different!

Now at 40 she has the leisure to do the things she has thought about so long—IF she still has her old energy and zest for living.

Dear Life Begins:
When I first played badminton, I knew it was my sport. I got along well from the first and was anxious for competitive meetings.

Not long ago, I noticed that I did not pull out of a severe cold as quickly as I should. I felt weak and run-down after it. I also had a recurring pain in my shoulders and arms. And the State Badminton Tournament was coming along!

A friend told me Fleischmann's Yeast makes the digestive system work properly—and helps you that way to gain strength.

Fleischmann's Yeast gave me back my strength—and with it the pains disappeared. To the surprise and delight of my family—the team I was on won the State League tournament and a beautiful silver cup! BERTHA S. NICKERSON

Constipation was a constant trouble. I was lazy—and so listless I had no interest in anything.

My mother always said Fleischmann's Yeast was good for her. My three boys also eat it. I decided to give it a trial.

Soon I had forgotten my decision that gardening was back-breaking work—and not for me any more. I was full of energy and buoyancy. I spent a great many pleasant hours in my garden full of high hope that I had something special in dahlia.

CHILDREN GET BACK FUN-LOVING MOTHER

Dear Life Begins:
I am 54. When I was young I was full of fun. Then I am afraid I took the responsibilities and tragedies of life too seriously. I had hoped when my children were able to take care of themselves I would again find the happiness which I craved.

But it looked as though it was not going to be that way. My digestion was out of order. I was always tired and dull from lack of sleep. I loved my children. But when they came to see me, I could not make the visits pleasant. My daughter suggested that Fleischmann's Yeast would take away the nervous exhaustion and get my digestive system in order.

It made me feel as carefree as a girl. I sleep well, have no fatigue, no indigestion. Now that I am well, I am completely happy. JESSIE WENCK

You "Slow Down" When Digestion Weakens

—One of the First Signs of Age

Many lives come to the peak of their mental powers around 40—even considerably later, at times. And just when it looks as though years of success lie ahead—the body begins to slow down. Fear comes that you will never enjoy these years which you have worked for and looked forward to.

You may just need extra help. One of the first parts of the body to weaken is the digestive system. The gastric juices change. They do not flow as freely. Their digestive strength gradually declines. But a check can be put on this.

Because its action induces a fuller flow of juices of high digestive power, many older people are eating Fleischmann's Yeast regularly.

These older people are also helped by the tonic action of a generous supply of four vitamins in Fleischmann's Yeast. Each one of these vitamins adds its own special aid in making the body healthy and vigorous.

If you are over 40, eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day—about ¼ hour before meals—plain or in a little water. Almost everyone past first youth finds their digestion is put in perfect order. They feel more hope about life in general and more enthusiasm for their own personal ambitions.

$25 WILL BE PAID FOR LETTERS of success after 40—so helpful to others we wish to print them. If you can truly credit to Fleischmann's Yeast some part of the health that made your success possible—write us—enclosing your picture. Life Begins, 430 Lexington Ave., New York.

Legion Merry-makers Invade New York for Rollicking 1937 Convention

DEMOCRACY'S CRY SOUNDS FOR LEGION

right was dying in many places across the world in "the maelstrom of new-born ill will and intolerance."

"America gasps in horror," he said—in what seemed an echo of the keynote of Legion Commander Harry Colmery's denunciation of attempts to foster Nazi principles in this country—"when it sees great groups of people abroad persecuted solely because of race or religion."

Hull Makes Plea.
Another plea for a vigorous campaign for peace came from Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who told the national commander's dinner that peace is not only the goal of the idealist "but at the same time the cornerstone of international self-preservation."

"Peace must always be our goal," said Hull. "Not peace for ourselves alone, but peace throughout the world, for nations today are so interdependent that the repercussions of war affect neutrals only a few degrees less than they affect belligerents."

The Eight and Forty, women's counterpart to the playground group of the Legion, elected Mrs. Mary Conrad Haws, of Johnston, Pa., Le Chapeau National, president of the society.

Elected Les Demis-Chapeaux, or vice presidents, were Mrs. Elmer Hunt, of New York; Mrs. Francis Laughlin, of Florida; Mrs. Lyle Tottman, of West Virginia; Mrs. Grace Stevenson, of Utah, and Mrs. Grace O'Connell, of Colorado.

John R. Quinn, of California, a former national commander, stood in response to say that democracy was "in greater danger today than when we tried to save it in 1918."

"We are hoping and praying that the emotions revived by this return to New York"—he spoke of a time when men here for the first time saw it slip away from the side of a troop ship—"will carry us on to victory again in the battle against plots against democracy today."

This, the grand opening of the convention, was one mainly for serious exhortation.
To the thousands sitting still and quiet in the great auditorium, General John J. Pershing, the commander of the A. E. F., the legendary "Black Jack" to a million doughboys who never saw him, sent his greetings, after his old men had presented him—across 3,000 miles of water—with his old colors.

Pershing Speaks.
"... I shall be with you in spirit," old Black Jack told them, in words indistinct across all that space, "and shall join you in your proud march down the historic avenue as you swing along to the inspiring aims of those far-away wartime days."

"You may not be as young as you once were, but I am sure that your hearts will beat as strongly as with the same patriotic fervor as when you stopped the enemy at Chateau Thierry and drove him from the last stronghold in the Meuse-Argonne."

Outside the hall, and after this first, grave session was over—there was such a gusty air of playfulness and lusty celebration as this old city had not seen since Armistice. Two hundred and thirty thousand more Legionnaires were outside that hall.

There were drum corps contests, glee club marathons, receptions, teas, various musical contests, and there was, too, the jovial arrival in harbor of part of the Atlantic fleet.

The high spot late today and tonight—still speaking of gaiety with official sanction—was the Eighth avenue parade of the Forty and Eight—40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux—in vehicles of incredible shapes, sounds and manners of locomotion.

Outside all this, the strictly unofficial celebration was of such a quality and caliber that the residents of this city were about ready to abandon one of their oldest and proudest boasts; New York can take it.

Speaking generally, the home folks just timidly looked on, although a section of the Bronx stood alone to hold its little silent. There, the residents disturbed the Legionnaires who were parked in a trailer camp—disturbed them so much they moved.

RIVERS GETS FIRST DRIVERS' LICENSE

license No. 3, while the No. 2 went to Emmett Williams, of Monroe, Georgia's "number one safe driver" in a state and national survey conducted by an automobile association last year.

BECK WILL RESIGN FROM HIGH COURT

son must run for the unexpired term terminating in 1940. Justice Beck was last elected for six years in 1934.

Rivers' Announcement.
Governor Rivers made no statement last night further than he had tendered the appointment to Peebles.

The 77-year-old justice, whose tenure is one of the longest in the history of the court, served as judge of the Flint superior court circuit before his appointment to the supreme court September 14, 1905, by the then Governor Joseph M. Terrell. For the past 20 years he has been presiding justice of the court's second division.

Close associates have described him as a "two-fisted judge." Probably his most widely circulated opinion came in the Leo Frank case, when he joined with one other member of the court to deliver a dissenting opinion which held a new trial justifiable for the man later pardoned by Governor Slaton and lynched in one of the state's most notorious cases.

Member of Burns Club.
Recognized as a deep student of the laws, he however displayed keen interest in other fields—literature, reading in German, French and Spanish as well as English. He was a member of the Burns Club, an outstanding organization of men devoted to the study and appreciation of literature.

Born, April 28, 1860, Justice Beck was reared in Harris county, later attending the University of Georgia, where he received both the A. B. and LL. B. degrees. His first public office was that of state senator from the twenty-sixth district from 1890 to 1891. Two years later he became solicitor general of the Flint circuit and in 1894 was elected judge of the circuit. He left the bench to enter the army during the Spanish-American War, serving as a major in the Third Georgia Infantry.

Son Died in War.
He maintained a keen interest in the army even after his discharge—and it was through the army he suffered his most severe tragedy. His son, Marcus W. Beck Jr., was the first Atlantican killed in the World War and it is for him one of the local American Legion posts is named. The son was fatally wounded in the battle of Belleau wood.

Peebles, one of the state's most prominent lawyers, has been active in public life and state affairs. Born September 9, 1879, at Gibson, Glascock county, he is 58 years old. He graduated from the University of Georgia in the class of 1903, having obtained the LL.B. degree in one and one-half years instead of the normal two. While in college he was a member of the Sigma Nu social fraternity and the Theta Lambda Phi legal fraternity.

Public Offices.
His first public office of consequence was that of city attorney of Augusta, a post which he held from 1915 to 1919, when he did not offer for re-election. From 1925 to 1929 Peebles represented Richmond county as state senator. He was elected county attorney in 1935, a post he still holds.
In 1932 and again in 1936 he served as a delegate to the national Democratic convention.
He married Miss Katherine Hall, of Knoxville, Tenn., on May 13, 1926, and has one son, L. Hall Peebles.

7 SAVED AT SEA

Crew, Passengers Brought From Burning Ship.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Seven persons were rescued by coast guardsmen today when fire destroyed a $10,000 craft a half-mile off shore.

The craft, "Peer Gynt," a 70-foot auxiliary schooner, sank a few minutes after three crew members were taken off.

The owner, Joseph Naame, his wife, Isobel, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Spoth, all of Atlantic City, had left in a small boat a few minutes after the fire broke out near the engine.

Mrs. Eva Ennis is shown above giving the hot foot to Tony Postero, Athens, Ga., while (left to right) R. M. Sanderson and H. L. Mahany hold Tony's attention. The entire fun-loving group is from Georgia.

Caballeros Win Drum and Bugle Title in Gotham

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—

The Caballeros, of San Gabriel, Cal., Post No. 442, regained the American Legion drum and bugle corps championship here tonight before a crowd of 25,000 in the Polo Grounds.

The colorfully clad Californians, who introduced the Caroca step to the march routine of the Legion's sartorially perfect bugle-tooters and drum beaters, had held the title before they were beaten by the Chicago Commonwealth Edison Post at the Cleveland convention last year.

The defending champions from Chicago finished seventh in the Legion's most elaborate concentrated display of music power, measured cadence, uniform perfection and military marching precision.
The San Gabriel troupe, sporting exotic costumes tailored along Caballero lines, played an intricate repertoire including the military escort, salute and an A. E. F.

medley. The Californians were directed by Drum Major Bill Osmond and managed by Frank Darr.

East Orange, N. J., Post No. 73 and the Henry H. Houston II Post No. 3 from the Germantown suburbs of Philadelphia tied for second.

The scores of the finals:
San Gabriel, Cal.—96.825.
East Orange, N. J.—96.15.
Germantown—96.15.
Miami, Fla., Harvey Seeds Post—95.40.
The St. Louis Musicians Post No. 394 repeated today as band champion of the American Legion with 87.59.

The Sons squadron attached to Des Moines, Iowa, Post No. 274, won the first national drum and bugle championship of the Sons of American Legion here and with it a $150 cash prize and the 3-foot trophy placed in perpetual competition by last year's Cleveland convention.
LaGrange, Ga., was 16th, with 79.5, final score.

Worcester, Mass., is sometimes known as "the academic city."
All Saints' Day is the day following Halloween.

TIMES SQUARE HOT; VETERANS DAZZLE

They're Getting Older, But Can Make Big Racket, Reporter Says.

By IRA WOLFERT.

(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—This thing of the American Legion being in town for a convention just goes on and on.

Everybody has been thinking, during the racket's red glare, that, after all, here are a bunch of the 40 and 50-year-old lads and they'll have to settle down sometime. But that thought is out of date now. The wildest razzledazzle the town has known since Armistice Day of 1918 keeps getting wilder all the time, and the boys keep hollering. "Just wait till we get warmed up!"

Take it from this shell-shocked reporter, things are pretty hot right now. This dispatch is being written in the heart of the Times Square sector and, except for the note of levity included, it sounds as if somebody got tangled up and moved us over to Madrid. Bombs bursting in air. Bombs lifting manholes. Cannon exploding red rubber balls all over the place. Sirens, whistles, bells. Hooks, shrieks (from ladies whose stockings are being wetted down by water pistols), whoops, roars. And the bedlam of 84 bands of bugles and drums going all at once, trying to drown out one another and succeeding only in stupefying the senses.

There is, of course, another side to the picture. You find that in the committee rooms where resolutions, policies and Legion careers are made and unmade. And in the museum of modern art, where the somber war etchings of the German soldier, Otto Dix, have been placed on view. You find it also in all the more sober tourist centers outside of Times Square.

NEW BUILDING PLANNED.
BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The old Steinenger building, the first two-story brick store to be built in Bainbridge, is being razed. A modern building will be constructed in its place.

ATLANTA . . . . . YOU ARE INVITED TO See for Yourself!

Here is a complete line of the most practical, most efficient and most ingenious office supplies it is possible to produce. Each item has unique advantages over competitive products... advantages so obvious and evident that you can see for yourself, through simple, conclusive tests, that KODYE offers you greater service at greater savings than any other brand. For example:

1. KODYE TYPEWRITER RIBBONS may be tested on your own machines, against any other ribbons you choose, and, if properly selected by thread count and inking for the type of service required, will prove unquestionably superior. Priced from $4.00 per dozen.
2. KODYE CARBON PAPERS give perfect carbon copies... clearer, cleaner... and last longer, when properly selected, than any other brand. Priced from $1.00 per box.
3. KODYE WRITING FLUIDS prove their superiority by their performance. They will not clog, fade, wash out; they flow like water off a duck's back, dry smooth as a kitten's ear. Certified tests prove that KODYE contains less solids and has greater permanency than any of eight other standard inks. Priced from 15c per 2-oz. bot.
4. KODYE KURLY KLIPS are a revolutionary new design. Their "paper-streamed," air-thin, tempered-steel construction hugs papers closely, prevents tearing, eliminates picking up loose sheets. They save up to 50% in filing space and effect substantial savings in postage, in many cases, because of their lighter weight. Priced 50 cents per thousand.

See these superior products in their modern, attractive packages, now. Ask your stationer for evidence of tested superiority. Buy from him today. KODYE Products will increase the efficiency of your office force... add to the appearance of your office correspondence and cut your office costs.

CROP REDUCTIONS ORDERED FOR 1938 UNDER BENEFIT ACT

Definite Amounts Set on Cotton and Corn With Congressional Approval.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP) The Roosevelt administration set out today to hold next year's acreage of major crops below the 1928-37 average.

Officials announced limitations with which farmers will have to comply to obtain federal benefit payments under the existing soil conservation act.

At the same time, they declared congress must enact new crop control legislation to insure effectiveness of the program.

"In the absence of other legislation," said Secretary Wallace, "normal weather conditions over several seasons again will result in the accumulation of burdensome surpluses." Congress already has agreed to give new farm legislation right-of-way at its next meeting, which may be a special session called by President Roosevelt this fall, or the regular session starting next January.

The 1938 conservation program sets definite limits on the amount of major crops and especially of corn, cotton, tobacco, potatoes, rice and peanuts which may be produced without disqualifying the farmer for benefit payments.

A national "goal" or acreage limit was established for all major crops at 275,000,000 to 290,000,000 acres. This compares with an average of 305,000,000 acres in the 1928-37 period.

This national goal will be split into state, county and individual farm "goals." Special goals on the six crops will be divided similarly.

FIRMS IN ATLANTA TO PAY 5 MILLION

over the quarterly dividend paid July 1.

One year ago the Coca-Cola Company paid approximately $2,000,000 to the same number of stockholders a share and a 25-cent dividend, totaling $3,744.50.

The Georgia Power Company will pay about $737,000 on its $5 and $6 preferred stock issues. This is a quarterly dividend of $1.50 and $1.25, respectively, for the two issues.

Statistics compiled by W. F. Broadwell, of Courts & Company, dividend payments by other business concerns in Atlanta and territory with comparisons of a year ago include:

Bibb Manufacturing Company, common stock, 200,000 shares, a quarterly dividend of $1 totaling $200,000.

West Point Manufacturing Company, 360,000 shares, a quarterly dividend of $1, totaling $108,000. Last year the total was $144,000.

First National Bank, 540,000 shares, a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, totaling $135,000. The same amount was paid a year ago.

Fulton National Bank, 10,000 shares, a quarterly dividend of $1.75, totaling $17,500. The same amount was paid a year ago.

Trust Company of Georgia, 20,000 shares, a quarterly dividend of $3, totaling $60,000. One year ago the total was $45,000 at $2.25 dividend a share.

Atlantic Steel Company, new common, 100,000 shares, a quarterly dividend of 20 cents, totaling $120,000.

The Atlantic Steel Company pays semi-annually on its preferred stock. The next payment is due November 1.

The Continental Gin Company, 41,400 shares will pay a $1.50 dividend, totaling $62,100. Figures for 1936 are not available. This is on the six per cent preferred stock.

Extra Dividend Declared. The 6 1/2 per cent preferred stock of Thomas Cotton Mills of 27,888 shares will pay a quarterly dividend of $1.62 a share and also an extra dividend of $1 a share, totaling $73,053. A year ago this concern paid a total of $45,305.

Rich's Inc., six and a half per cent preferred on its 3,500 shares will pay a quarterly dividend of $1.62 1/2 totaling $56,875. The same amount as paid last year.

The American Bakeries Corporation on its 7 per cent preferred, will pay $32,842.25 on 18,787 shares. This was the amount paid a year ago. The same concern on its Class "A" stock this year will pay a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share and a 25-cent extra dividend, totaling $37,744.50.

The Class "B" stock will pay a dividend of 50 cents a share on 77,370 shares and will total $38,685. Figures for last year were not available yesterday.

Quarterly Dividend. A quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share will be declared by the Interstate Bond Company on its seven per cent preferred "AA" stock for 7,080 shares and will total $12,390. The same concern on its class "A" stock will pay a quarterly dividend of 8 cents a share on 48,050 shares, totaling $3,844.

Approximately $19,500 will be paid on 13,000 shares by the Atlanta Gas Light Company on its six per cent preferred. This is a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share.

The Haverly Furniture Company preferred will pay a quarterly dividend of 37 1/2 cents a share on 53,207 shares, totaling $19,952. A year ago approximately $21,467 was paid on 57,245 shares. The Haverly Furniture common, of 204,038 shares, a monthly dividend of 10 cents will total $20,403.80. A year ago 200,000 shares totaled $20,000 with a monthly dividend of 15 cents.

A semi-annual dividend of $2 a share on 5,000 shares will be paid by the Georgia Savings Bank. This will total $10,000.

Scores of other Atlanta corporations are yet to declare dividends for October 1, and financial leaders yesterday declared that this year's payments are certain to pass the five and a half million mark indicating that prosperity is continuing to go full speed ahead. It also indicates business on a sound keel, it was said.

Boards of directors of other Atlanta corporations are to hold dividend meetings during this week. Substantial payments on all issues are expected.

had "never criticized council as previous administrations had."

Controversy was started when the police committee's recommendation for a permit for the Willmark System Inc. (an inspection service for business concerns) was read.

Couch succeeded in having it ruled out of order because it did not have the pictures and names of all employees attached to it.

"I do not object to a high-class organization coming here, but I would object to some agency coming here to put agents to work terrorizing the employees of our businesses," Couch asserted. "I want to find out more about this Willmark company."

City Attorney Jack Savage ruled the paper out of order on the technicality and immediately an amendment to the ordinance requiring photographs and names was offered to waive this requirement. It was tabled.

The Willmark Company is among the best known in the country and is a nationally advertised concern," Hartsfield said afterward. "I want to see it locate here. The management will rent large offices and will employ 12 or 15 persons in this city. It will bring more money to Atlanta."

Sewer Plant Funds. The verbal and written exchanges between the mayor and council featured a short business session where $4,410 was appropriated for operation of sewer disposal plants for a month, and an attack was made on the police department for removing stop signs without authority.

Fraising Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic bureau, personally, the council nevertheless adopted a resolution introduced by Alderman I. Gloor Hailey to instruct the police department not to remove signs unless authorized to do so by council.

Hailey, Couch and Callaway cited instances where they said stop signs were taken away without authority.

Permit Revocation Refused. Another beer and wine permit, recommended for revocation by the police committee, was referred back yesterday by council. Alderman Carpenter asked that the committee again consider the permit of the Royal Cafe, 50 Auburn avenue, even though Alderman G. Dan Bridges asserted whiskey was found in the place recently.

However, the permit of Murray Harmon at 1010 Pryor street was revoked upon the committee's recommendation.

"Politics" was charged in the tax committee's recommendation that the taxes for land owned by Emory University at Boulevard and Houston be exempted for 1937. The paper passed when presented by Councilman Frank Wilson, but Councilman Couch and Councilman Cecil W. Heister served notice for reconsideration at the next meeting. "We'll see what politics are in this paper," Couch asserted.

Wilson explained that the Emory ground is used by the city and the WPA rent free. If taxes of $500 for the year are collected, rent will be charged, he said.

daily tomorrow, when the public is invited to give information concerning "payoffs" to police and activities of "racketeers."

Even though the "bug" remained in the field yesterday, several lottery companies took shelter while the "grand jury heat" is on, members of police lottery squads said.

"The lottery companies which are laying off are not folding up at all," a person connected with one of the larger companies said yesterday. "We received orders not to take bets yesterday but we expect to begin operations soon."

$2,000 Bond. City Detectives John Crankshaw, J. B. King and Frank Watson arrested the alleged "pick-up" man yesterday. He gave his name as Marvin Lakes, 16, negro, and was placed under $2,000 bond at Fulton tower.

The officers saw Lakes at Spring and Hunnicutt streets with a large paper sack, they said. The negro boy ran when they started after him. The three gave chase and finally caught him, but without the sack. In an alley off Hunnicutt street they found the sack, containing the 101 lottery books, stuffed in a garbage can.

The negro was questioned closely but refused to reveal any information about his "bosses," Crankshaw declared.

Cal Starter Held. County Officers W. J. Anderson, S. D. Vaughn, and J. F. Wray made the other arrest. They charged C. C. Melton, 36, white, cab starter at a downtown hotel, with lottery activities and placed him under $200 bond at the tower. Melton made bond but the negro had not last night.

Anderson said tape and ribbons such as are used in the lottery business were found in the Melton's starter's booth. Melton denied knowledge of the tape and disclaimed lottery connections, they another development of the grand jury's investigation, Russell Turner, attorney for Odie V. Fluker, announced he will ask the grand jury today to reopen the Eddie Guyol murder case.

Guyol, killed in 1935 in front of his north side home, was one of the first lottery operators in the city. Fluker was convicted of his murder and sentenced to death. He is in Fulton tower now awaiting resentencing, since the supreme court denied him a new trial.

Special Prosecutor Andrews said last night he had "heard nothing" about reopening the Guyol case and had not planned to take it up in connection with the present investigation at all.

Bonds Are Raised. Police Chief Hornsby yesterday ordered that all lottery offenders arrested by city officers be taken directly to Fulton Tower, while Andrews wrote Sheriff James I. Lowry requesting all lottery bonds be increased.

Bonds for writers will be $1,000 and "higher ups" will get bonds ranging to $5,000, it was said. Andrews asserted this move was made to "cut down the profits" of organized crime.

Questioning of witnesses and assembling of case records of all persons convicted of lottery offenses for the past eight months will continue today.

Andrews again reiterated the grand jury invitation for all persons having information concerning graft in the law enforcement agencies and about organized crime to report it immediately.

Immunity has been offered persons giving such information.

EAST POINT COUNCIL BACKS RACKET DRIVE

East Point city council went on record last night as commending efforts of Fulton county and Atlanta authorities and the Atlanta daily newspaper to stamp out rackets and pledged support of the city of East Point to the solicitor general's office.

The formal resolution, adopted unanimously was proposed by Mayor J. R. Farham.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP) Associate Justice George Sutherland, of the supreme court, returned today from a European vacation, declaring he was "feeling fine" and that he would take his seat on the tribunal when the new term begins October 4.

There had been frequent reports that the 75-year-old justice might retire. Asked if he would do so, he replied:

"I am not going to discuss anything like that."

Getting Up Nights Caused By Kidney Germs

Are you worried and annoyed by Getting Up Nights? If so, you should know that the true cause may be irritating germs in the kidneys or bladder, which may also cause other distressing symptoms such as Nervousness, Leg Pains, Swollen Joints, Backache, Dizziness, Frequent Headaches, Puffy Eyelids, Burning Passages, Loss of Appetite and Energy, so that you feel old before your time. Ordinary medicines can't help much because they don't combat such germs. The Doctor's formula Cystex starts fighting the kidney germs in 3 hours, checks pain, stimulates and tones the kidneys and bladder. Users often feel younger, stronger and far better in a day or so. ## POLITICAL STRATEGY OF THE CIO

Observers of the political picture in the United States give John L. Lewis, leader of the CIO, little credit for sagacity when they see possibility of his withdrawal from the Democratic party to set up a third labor party in this country.

Peter Molyneux, publisher of The Texas Weekly, in a recent address pointed out that a labor party in the United States would get practically nowhere in an effort to elect its own nominees at the national polls. Organized labor, especially that faction which follows the CIO banner, knows that, while constituting a strong voting group—the majority in some industrialized states—on a national scale it is far short of a controlling factor in the elections.

On the other hand, since the abandonment of the two-thirds rule for the selection of Democratic nominees, labor is able to play a powerful part in determining the policies and candidates of the Democratic party. From the Lewis viewpoint it is not only the course of wisdom, but the only course, to continue boring from within the party rather than forming a separate political group.

Mr. Molyneux declares that the success or failure of the Lewis attempt to control the Democratic party rests entirely upon the mass of Democratic voters and the degree of interest they take in the issues presented to congress. Taking Texas as an example, he points out that, on the wages and hours bill, a measure unfair and obnoxious to the south, one Texas senator opposed the bill, while the other supported it.

Senator Morris Sheppard, the supporter of the measure, undoubtedly believes, Mr. Molyneux said, that the people of Texas want that bill enacted. The only way to prove to the senator that he has erred in his interpretation of his constituents' desire is for those constituents to let him know in terms which cannot be mistaken. Mr. Molyneux then reminds that the mails, the telegraph and other means of communication are open to everyone and calls on all Texans who oppose the wages and hours bill to let their views be known, emphatically, to Senator Sheppard before congress reconvenes and the issue is again up for debate and for decision.

Lewis and the CIO, Mr. Molyneux declares, seem to have the inside track, at present, in influencing the platform and policies of the Democratic party. It is only by an early awakening of old line Democrats to the danger, and unmistakable demonstration of their desires, that the power of Lewis and the radicalism he personifies can be defeated.

A CITY SALVAGED

Manchester, N. H., two years ago suffered probably the greatest blow possible to its prosperity and its very life. The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, makers of cotton textiles, closed all its plants in that city. There were approximately 12,000 employees, all of whom were thrown out of work and their purchasing power stripped almost entirely away from them.

The population of Manchester is 76,000 and the sudden unemployment of practically one-sixth of its inhabitants meant ruin for the city. The merchants could not collect accounts, they could not sell goods, and the entire structure of the industrial city crumbled. For the Amoskeag company was practically the only industry of the city.

The property of the defunct manufacturing company was sold under order of the federal court. Amoskeag Industries, Inc., was formed, locally. And a drive was launched to induce other industries to come and occupy the buildings, then idle, and to use the power, then going to waste.

Many of those buildings have already been rented to new enterprises. Not all, but sufficient for Amoskeag Industries, Inc., to declare a dividend of 125 per cent.

Manchester, N. H., today boasts all the advantages of a diversified industry in place of one. The city's eggs are no longer all in one basket.

The city leaders expect, eventually, to rent all the available space left vacant by the failure of the old firm. And when this is done the combined pay rolls will be greater than when the entire plant was used by one company and the workers will know a new degree of security, while retail business and all the interrelated activities of the city and its adjacent territory will be benefited.

There is talk of cutting the number of newspapers in Italy to one, and only a very old friend will tease II Duce by asking him to guess.

Yachting parties on the Mediterranean will please not throw the sardine cans over the side, as oil on the surface is counted as a sunken submarine.

What ever becomes of a deadly anti-aircraft weapon, once the aerial warfare sets in?

"WHOM THE GODS WOULD DESTROY—"

There is ironic effrontery in the report that Mussolini is enraged at the actions of Britain and France in instituting the naval patrol to scotch submarine piracy in the Mediterranean.

II Duce was invited and given every opportunity to participate in the nine-power police offensive against the undersea criminals. Italy was even urged to attend the Nyon conference and take her place in the alignment of civilization against barbarity.

The reason for her refusal is, of course, well understood even though it cannot be officially admitted. There is little doubt that the outrages against peaceful shipping in the Mediterranean have been perpetrated by boats of the Italian navy. Mussolini's mad determination to aid the Spanish Insurgents in every way has apparently caused him to toss overboard every consideration of humanity and national honor from the ship of state he commands.

It is a parallel situation with that "defensive war" against Ethiopia, thousands of miles away from Italian soil.

Now, when the powers unite to stamp out a modern replica of the ancient piracies of Tripoli, Benito Mussolini pretends to great indignation and construes the presence of British and French war vessels in the Mediterranean as an affront to Italian dignity and a menace to Italian security.

If ancient adages are reliable, there is comfort to the world in one that indicates the Mussolini era is driving to a debacle. For the ancient sage declared: "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

FORGET-ME-NOT.

The annual forget-me-not sale of poppies will be conducted on October 8, for the benefit of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

There is no appeal which touches so closely the hearts of the American people as this. The funds derived are used exclusively for the benefit of the men who still suffer from disabilities received in the course of their service for the nation in its armed forces during the World War.

The money brings little pleasures and comforts to the disabled doomed to a life within hospital walls. It aids others to secure payment of disability claims from the government. It helps others, handicapped by their injuries, to find suitable employment.

The annual campaign has been given enthusiastic endorsement by every president, from Woodrow Wilson to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Under the direction of women's "Forget-Me-Not" committee of the D. A. V., there will be approximately 1,000 women, representing almost 100 women's organizations, selling the little poppies for remembrance on the streets of Atlanta on October 8. These poppies, incidentally, are made by disabled veterans themselves, thus obviating expense.

When the women ask, on October 8, that you buy a poppy, remember that it is for the men who are still paying the fearful price of victory in the war of 20 years ago. Remember and give, not only according to your easy ability, but according to the full response of your heart.

SEASONAL FIRE HAZARD

It will not be long, now, before the coming of fall and its chilly mornings will mean the refiring, after a summer of disuse, of the furnace, the fireplace, the gas burner or whatever form of heat-dispensing equipment is in the particular home.

Some forethoughtful citizens will have their heating plants inspected in advance, but it is safe to say the majority will merely worry over how to pay the fuel bills and hope, optimistically, that the furnace is in good working order.

The result will be, according to precedent of other years, a busy season for the Atlanta fire department. There will be the sound of the rolling equipment through the streets and the hook and ladder trucks will demand an extra large quota of gasoline.

Furnace repairmen will profit by the forethought of householders who call them in now. This, of course, will be a worthy contribution to better conditions of business in an important industry.

Irrespective of this result, proper inspection of all heating plants now, before they are put in operation for another winter, will pay big dividends in the form of lower fire losses, with the profit scattered widely in the form of reduced fire insurance premiums, which ultimately result when losses are fewer.

Editorial of the Day

WELLSIAN CRITIQUE

(From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

Historian, novelist and commentator, H. G. Wells looks upon the result of education over the world and is revolted. Speaking before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, Mr. Wells outlined a revolutionary system of education that would provide each individual with an "irreducible minimum" of knowledge, teach him to think independently and be more capable to peer through the sham doctrines of demagogues whose preachments, he considers, threaten destruction of civilization.

One of the greatest industries of modern life is mass education. Elementary and secondary schools, colleges and universities turn out millions each year. Fortunes are hurried annually into the process of training young minds. Yet the world is increasingly racked by war and militarism, international jealousies, despotism, a tumult of discord. Is this a commentary on our systems of education? Mr. Wells thinks it is.

"We have no time to waste," he observed, "if our schools are not to go on delivering year by year fresh hordes of ignorant, unbalanced and uncritical minds, at once suspicious and credulous, weakly gregarious, easily baffled and easily misled into the monstrous responsibilities and dangers of this present world. Merely cannon fodder and stuff for massacres and stampedes."

In a phrase, he is convinced we teach ignorantly and produce ignorance. He would tell the true stories of past and present, emphasizing that human life on the whole has been progressive. "I believe," said Mr. Wells, "that the crazy combative patriotism that plainly threatens to destroy civilization today is very largely degenerated by the schoolmaster and the schoolmistress in their history lessons. Equally mischievous is the future antipatriotism of the leftist teacher."

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

NO EXTRA SESSION WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—There will be no extra session of congress. That statement is being made privately but emphatically by the men who claim to know what they don't want and how not to get it.

So far nobody has dared come out and admit it officially and a number of senators are offering highly vocal lip-service to the need of a gathering of the lawmakers right now. But most of these same men have their fingers crossed. On the surface, there is at least two powerful forces working for the extra session: Organized labor, both wings, and the farmer.

Nobody denies that the wages and hours bill had and has still enough votes to pass and that it was simply blocked by a parliamentary trick. The farm program is crying for action and time is the essence of that contract, since seed-time and harvest wait for no man.

But the sub-surface currents are such that administration leaders believe that, if congress met, there would be a storm violent enough to wreck the stoutest New Dealer program. With a campaign of 1938 already under way, the administration has enough to do handling the ship without having to man the pumps.

TWO SORE SPOTS The two sore spots are these: First, although every effort has been made to "localize" the epidemic of vengeance stirred up with the famous Guffey attack on the anti-convict bill senators, the resentment is known to be spreading. Congressional temperatures indicate that, if congress got together, there would be another dog-fight.

The second and more recent trouble spot is, of course, the Klan. Now that this issue has been injected into the political situation, any congressional debate, it is feared, would soon turn into a bitter revival meeting where all the emotions engendering class hatred would be whipped to a dangerous pitch.

So those who hold the reins in their hands aren't going to permit a runaway if they can help it. That is why they are saying, "no extra session." And they aren't saying it with flowers, either.

CONSTITUTIONAL DRAMA Of all the widely heralded events celebrating the 150th anniversary of the constitution, one which was perhaps the most dramatic of all occurred to a newspaperman, sitting alone at midnight in his office in the National Press building.

It was George Stimpson, correspondent of the Houston Post. Mr. Stimpson is a deep student of early American history and he was reading Madison's notes of the constitutional convention. Completely absorbed in the intimate record before him, he only vaguely realized that he was approaching the anniversary of the very day of which he was reading.

It was August 7, and when he came to the date August 8, he glanced at his calendar, and, just then, in the hush of the night, a clock struck 12. Before turning back to his page, he flipped the leaf of his desk pad so that the "8" in his 20th century office matched the date of the dramatic moment in 1787 on the page before him. He read on. Suddenly, this sentence leapt from the page, the questioning words of Nathaniel Gorham, a Boston delegate:

"Can it be supposed," Delegate Gorham was demanding (with the obvious implication that it could not), "that this vast country including the western territory will, 150 years hence, remain one nation?"

MORE FOR TENANT FARMERS There was a simple statement in Secretary Wallace's announcement of the 1938 AAA conservation program which has a story behind it, and, what is more, a lot of fireworks ahead of it.

The significance of the provision referred to is this: If the measure is carried out, a lot of those tenant-farmers in the south will get a considerably larger share of the bounty passed out by the Department of Agriculture next year.

One of the stories behind that clause is the successful battle on the part of one of the CIO's youngest children, with the longest name. It is the recently reorganized "United Cannery, Agricultural and Allied Workers of America."

This week the "International" will officially take under its wing the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union. It was the members of the former organization who lobbied so faithfully to obtain a more abundant share of the Triple A handout last spring.

Most active of them all was Gardner Jackson, Washington's No. 1 underdog fancier, who appealed to committees, wore down the marble corridors of house and senate office building and shook a tireless index finger across mahogany desks.

Now the CIO framers gaze with gratification on the fruits of their labor. But they say that the fight has only started. Officials of the UCAAW predict that they will have a knock-down-and-drag-out battle to see that the tenant farmer gets the dollars that will be due him under the new rules. A counter-offensive against organizers of the tenant farmers broke out last week in Arkansas and Missouri. This opposition is hailed by the organizers as proof of success in the last two months.

But it's only a sample, they predict, of what's coming.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

A rule they've got in New York state is apt to raise a furor—Lipstick use is barred in court for every woman juror.

They're Going To Train 'Em.

For the first time, beginning this fall, women are eligible to serve on juries in the courts of New York state. And they're already beginning to draw up rules, regulations and suggestions.

For one thing, women jurors mustn't flourish lipsticks while in court. Nor must they "make eyes" at counsel for either side.

(Editor's Note: Just what definition would you apply to "making eyes"? And who's going to charge such a violation and present the legal proof?)

However, after that aside, let's look some more into the fascinating subject.

The story tells that, inside the jury room, criminal wiles may have full play. If a woman juror wants to put her idea across," says Christine Kevauver, of the legal staff of the New York Department of Health, "she must convince the men that they thought of it first."

Do you hear that, fellows? There's an admission which explains a lot of things, doesn't it? Gildern these tricky females, anyway. So that's how they do it!

Classes Planned.

That same Mrs. Kevauver, with all her trickiness, is going to rectify classes in jury service for the women, under the auspices of the Women's National Democratic Club. She's going to teach fundamentals of law, court routine and "psychology." That last item of the curricula is what we'd better watch.

If wheedling and women's wiles are included in psychology, the poor men who get on the same jury with the women are in for a bad time. They won't have a chance. Some woman juror will decide what she thinks the verdict should be and then it'll all be over except announcing the verdict, thanks to the power of feminine wiles and female trickery.

"Make the men believe they thought of it first," indeed!

Too Idealistic For Germany.

Here's something strange. The motion picture, "Lost Horizon," has been forbidden in Germany. Authorities in Nazi land assert that the film portrays a too peaceful, too idealistic existence for the good of the citizens of that land.

"Lost Horizon," if you read the book or have seen the picture, is the story of a strange, mysterious community, high in the Himalaya mountains, called Shangri-La. It is ruled over by an old, old philosopher who has made of it a sort of underground utopia, with the object of spreading

World's First Capitol.

The world's first capitol was in Rome, where as the Capitulum it was built on the site of the Temple of Jupiter. At its foundation was discovered a skull, which was taken as an omen that Rome would become the "capitumundi," or head of the world.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Lines From NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Lines from the diary of a great liberalizing influence:

June 8.—Awful tired all day. Out all night flogging Hyman Cohen, the clothes presser, for taking business away from Klagsman Jones. Ten of us in masks and robes grabbed him out of his house at 1 a. m., rode him 20 miles out in the country, and beat him with straps until he collapsed. Let him walk back. Very inspiring to me, and my physical fatigue today is no price at all to pay for the marvelous spiritual elation which I have felt. Never will I forget the disgusting shrieks of Cohen's wife and children in the dark. Place smudges of garlic. Revolting and very un-American.

June 26.—Attended Klorer last night and heard inspiring addresses by Klegge, Klirapp and great Exalted Kludd. Took measures to preserve American standards of justice in impending trial of two or our members for murder. Seems they shot a town marshal in Hickory Center for interfering with the Americanization of a Catholic named Murphy by the tar-and-feather ritual. Our two brothers have been indicted as a matter of form, although the prosecuting attorney, of course, is Klannish and will protect American ideals in the trial by presenting a weak case. Nevertheless to guarantee the preservation of American justice in the trial, we have arranged to place seven Klansmen on the jury.

Swelling July 12.—I have been swelling with pride all day. My Klannishness is the greatest, most purifying spiritual force of all my life. Last night six of us quietly went to the home of the Smith woman who calls herself a widow. Good-looking blonde with two children and no visible means of support, although she claims to have $1,800 life insurance from her husband's death. The wife of one of our members came to klonovocation and secretly informed us that the Smith woman was seen talking to a married man on East Oak street after dark twice in one week. Plain case of attempting to worm an American home.

So six of us grabbed her last night, took her up in the hills, and by the light of a fiery cross stripped all her clothes off, smeared her with tar, sprinkled her with feathers, and burned a scarlet letter on her forehead with acid. She screamed that she was an innocent victim of female jealousy, but she was so convinced of the soundness of a Klanswoman representing the highest type of 100 per cent American womanhood.

July 22.—I suppose it is over-ambitious of me, but I hope to get in a position some day where I can place a real American interpretation on the laws for the education of the children. Believe me, I will abolish the teaching of alien civics in American popular schools, in private schools. And white Americanism could rest assured that the federal government will never again interfere with the administration of true justice like it did on the Scottsboro case.

Fifty of Us August 3.—Been having labor trouble lately around here. Negroes won't work for 75 cents a day, demanding up to a dollar and a quarter. Half a dozen of our members complained of a serious situation, demanding that we send them to road gang for loafing when work is available but at good wages. But that would only arouse some un-American lawyer to defend them on strained constitutional grounds and cause endless trouble. I proposed more American methods. Therefore 50 of us raided half a dozen of the colored folk's homes, and grabbed four and tied them to trees and gave them a lesson in white supremacy.

Two of them busted loose and started to run, and in the excitement several guns were accidentally discharged, with the result that the fugitives were killed. We quickly disbanded, hiding our hoods and robes until the towns by separate routes. That was three days ago, and the treatment has been 100 per cent effective. All scared now, and our members report they are willing to work for even as little as 50 cents.

August 17.—One great spiritual satisfaction of Klannishness is to see un-American business being put out of business by our secret boycott. Dorsey's hardware store folded up last week and Klagsman Swivet will get all his trade. I always pretended to be a good friend of Dorsey, but he's a Catholic and can't be trusted to maintain American ideals.

I would shake him and look him in the eye and he couldn't tell if I was one of those who looked at him through the peepholes of a mask as he stood on the sidewalk watching our parades.

September 1.—At last the highest ambition of my life has been gratified. I am too full of words, and I take office in the sacred, unfading bond of Klannishness. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

The Little Dog Doesn't Roll Over If There Is Nobody to Praise or Scold

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Some years ago a 14-year-old girl, of the lower middle class, having visited an uncle and aunt who lived in another state, said to her mother: "Aunt Jane and Uncle Bill are funny. They say 'please' and 'thank you' to one another like they were strangers."

Among strangers who are relaxed and at ease, it is usually possible to detect relationship of blood or marriage without the guidance of resemblance. Relatives speak to one another in a tone of voice never used in addressing others.

A few, of course, speak in accents of affection, in public as in private, and some unconsciously employ a tone that confesses timidity or fear; but the usual tone, however much it belies the heart, is one of unfriendliness. It expresses reproach or impatience or annoyance or exasperation or dislike or downright wrath.

If you doubt it, listen to the speech of your acquaintances when they have laid aside their company manners.

The immediate explanation is easily discovered. Brothers and sisters have endured much from one another, and they are rivals for parental largesse. Blood kin and in-laws are rivals, also, for favors or affection, and they envy or disapprove one another. Children annoy and disappoint parents; parents restrain or tyrannize or disappoint children; and husband and wife irritate and bore one another.

These things provide a plausible explanation; but the fact that familiarity breeds contempt is not a sufficient reason for bad manners, for the courtier and the valet remember their manners despite long familiarity, and nobody speaks rudely to a tyrant or a Santa Claus.

Good manners are not a gift but an accomplishment, and doubtless had their beginning in fear. One old-timer spoke courteously to another to avoid a cuff on the ear, and offered his seat to avoid being jerked out of it. And when discretion became a custom, it was called a virtue.

If good manners are an outward sign of inner grace—if they are prompted by a kind heart and gentle spirit, as they profess to be, they are consistent at all times and places. If they are merely showmanship—an acquired trick of behavior—they indicate no more discretion or hope of gain. And they are laid aside in the presence of relatives because there is nothing to fear and nothing to be won by showing off.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"O sleep, it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole;
To Mary Queen the praise be given,
She sent the gentle sleep from heaven
That slid into my soul . . ."

The sleep that severs perception from recollection, that censors the message of agony from body to brain, that withdraws the soul and mind of man from his surgeon's knife, is so great a boon to mankind that it is strange to have its origin and author disputed at this late day. Georgia Governor R. B. Battle serves medical history as well as he serves Georgia when he refuses to let the schools of his state accept textbooks attributing the first use of anesthetics to Drs. Morton and Warren, of Massachusetts. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, was first, beyond all disputing, and it was only his modesty and scientific conscience in the matter that allowed a question of his claim to arise. The discovery and first use of anesthetics, which he made in 1842 in Jackson county, Georgia, was not published to the world until 1849 because he wanted to make absolutely sure of his findings. In the meantime Dr. William T. G. Morton, of Boston, made a similar discovery and use which was made public in advance of Dr. Long's.

There is plenty of evidence, if the Governor of Massachusetts wants to fight the Governor of Georgia again, that the other which Crawford Long used when he removed a tumor from the neck of James Venable in Jackson county, Georgia, in 1842, was the first medical anesthesia in history. And that the second was when he amputated a negro boy's toe a few months later.

Next thing we know Massachusetts or some other northern community will be trying to take the discovery of the typewriter away from this region. All well-informed people know that the inventor of the typewriter was John Jonathan Pratt of Cherokee county, Alabama, but there are ignorant folks who dispute it to this day.

In these days when there seems to be a law for almost everything there should be a special edict requiring all good Americans to go in spirit if not in body to Richmond for celebration of that storied city's 200th birthday. They can have much of the visitation in spirit in reading those brimming bicentennial editions which the two Richmond papers have published. They can have much in reading the arresting story of Richmond written by the city's William Shands Meacham and published in the magazine section (September 5) of The New York Times. Richmond has something the rest of America needs to know and cultivate. It has, by dint of its brave and long history and of the tradition that history has developed, a sense of generations gone in relation to generations to come.

The pride which Richmond takes in its ancestry is not static but dynamic. It tells the young men of that city that something is expected of them, that what their forebears accomplished calls for matching accomplishments of their own, that noblesse oblige is a very genuine thing.

There are cities almost as storied and distinguished as Richmond, perhaps, where people expect to be honored and respected because their grandfathers were great or because they had great-grandfathers. But this writer's experience with Richmond people is that they stand upon no such clouded title. Their grandfathers and great-grandfathers are a challenge for them, not a cover. They feel that something is required of them, that they fail if they do not manage to do a little better than men less nobly born, that their heritage imposes upon them codes and disciplines beyond the lot of ordinary men.

Richmond, in other words, is conceited. It has the divine conceit which tells it that it can and must be better than other cities and other people and that it must work like the devil to realize upon the opportunity and fulfill the obligation.

'Sage of Emporia' Calls Black Case Reflection on President Roosevelt

Executive Could Easily Have Checked Burke Charges at Time He Sought Confirmation of Appointees in Senate, William Allen White Asserts.

Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black and the Ku Klux Klan are discussed here by "The Sage of Emporia," eminent journalist and political observer, who was active in the fight against the Klan during the 1924 gubernatorial campaign in Kansas.

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 20.—The Black affair is attracting the attention of the American people, and properly. First because the Black affair puts a blemish upon the integrity of the supreme court by naming a Kluxer there, and second because the sincerity and good judgment of the President are challenged by the fact that he could name a member of the Klan to the supreme court.

It is only fair and fairness should certainly govern in this discussion—to relieve the President of all responsibility in the actual appointment of a Klansman. That he was hasty will probably be his defense. Most likely he was angry. That he did not consider the rumors about Black and the Klan that have been rife in politics for a dozen years, which all informed politicians knew and which the President could easily forget if he had heard them, may be a reasonable statement. Certainly President Roosevelt's high ideals of public service entitles him to the benefit of every doubt. At least the President, up to the day of the nomination, should not be blamed.

Witnesses Offered. After that another situation arose. When Black was nominated, immediately the definite, explicit charge was made that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. It was made openly and officially, on the floor of the senate. Moreover, Senator Burke offered to produce witnesses to prove under oath all that now is set forth in the newspapers.

Senator Black was within the sound of Senator Burke's voice. He could have demanded an investigation. He could have asked to take the stand and deny or affirm these scandalous rumors.

The President certainly knew that there was more than a possibility that he had appointed a Klansman. The President himself even then could have investigated. As the presidential sponsor of Black's nomination, Mr. Roosevelt properly might have asked Burke for his evidence. Obviously it was not too late then to withdraw the appointment, at least to suspend it. Certainly it was not too late quietly to ask the Democratic organization in the senate to hold the confirmation open.

Did President Hoover jam through the nomination of Parker when charges of race prejudice were made against Parker, his supreme court nominee from North Carolina? No, the senate Republicans took their time and defeated Parker's nomination. He, like Hugo Black, was charged with racial prejudice. When Charles Hughes was nominated and challenged by the Progressives, ample time elapsed, with Hoover's approval, to learn all the facts about the charges. But times and parties have changed.

Black Sat Tight. What did Senator Black do, knowing the real facts, whatever they may be? He sat tight. He kept still. When he was given an opportunity to speak, he was silent. What did the President do? He, also, took the partisan attitude that to attack Black was to impugn Roosevelt's motives. Apparently he made it a personal matter. Certainly the Democratic organization in the senate, which now when Roosevelt winks, rushed the confirmation through, hurried and harried the Democratic senators, who refused to allow Burke to summon his witnesses.

The Democratic organization in the senate did not even hint that Black should make a statement in his own behalf. A dozen senators now claim they would not have voted to confirm Black if they had known what they know now. The President could have easily given the word to hold the confirmation and today these senators could vote intelligently where last month they voted blindly, following the President.

It must be assumed in fairness that the President was innocent when he named Black. But was he entirely blameless when he jammed the nomination through? Whether it was pride, pique, anger or negligence that held the President's hand when he opened the throttle and steamed ahead is unimportant. The point at issue is that he let the golden hour pass when the truth might have come out. He slept on his rights on our American rights to have a full, free discussion of the nomination of a justice of the supreme court.

To Fall Is Unthinkable. The President, in his recent speeches, has bemoaned the growing lack of confidence in the court. What did he do in speeding the confirmation of Senator Black to restore that confidence? But if the case is closed, it will be the President who will sit on the lid. It is scarcely thinkable that this leader, who has proved himself so brave, so gallant and so noble in his social vision, will fail his country in this crisis.

As for Mr. Justice Black, whatever censure he deserves is not for joining the Klan, not merely for accepting Klan support, not even for expressing his ardent gratitude therefor. Many an honest man has been deceived by the Klan. Many a bedeviled politician in a tight place has accepted Klan votes, has been ashamed of it and has tried to get out of it.

Hugo Black has done distinguished service in the senate. But his moral malfeasance was a failure of either courage or of judgment. When other senators were accusing him of Klan connections, he knew full well that those connections were material factors in his confirmation. He sat silent. He knew also that his silence was a subterfuge and deception, then he has certainly deliberately and with malice prepared to accept his confirmation under false pretenses. This introduction to the high court of his country is the measure of his blame.

Text of Statement Of U. S. to League

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP) Here is the text of the State Department announcement that it would be represented on the League of Nations committee considering the Sino-Japanese conflict:

The American minister to Switzerland, Mr. Leland Harrison, today addressed the following communication to the secretary general of the League of Nations:

I am instructed by my government to inform you that I have been authorized to attend the meeting of the advisory committee summoned on Tuesday, September 21, in the same capacity and for the same purposes as those in and for which Mr. Hugh Wilson previously attended, which were indicated in a communication from Mr. Wilson to Sir G. Drummond dated March 13, 1933.

U. S. ACCEPTANCE IS CONDITIONED. The American government recalls that the advisory committee was created subsequent to and on the basis of a major decision in the field of policy arrived at by the assembly in regard to a matter referred by the council to the assembly. In the understanding of the American government, the advisory committee was created to aid the members of the League in concerting their action and their attitude among themselves and with non-member states for the carrying out of a policy recommended by the League. At present, until the American government is informed regarding the functions which the League will expect the committee to perform, it is impossible for the American government to say to what extent it will be able effectively to co-operate.

CAREFUL STUDY IS PROMISED.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding with regard to the American government's position and no confusion or delay flowing from uncertainty, the American government feels constrained to observe that it cannot take upon itself those responsibilities which devolve from the fact of their membership from members of the League. It assumes that members of the League will arrive at their common decisions with regard to policy and possible courses of action by and through normal League procedure. The American government, believing thoroughly in the principle of collaboration among states of the world seeking to bring about peaceful solutions of international conflicts, will be prepared to give careful consideration to definite proposals which the League may address to it, but will not, however, be prepared to state its position in regard to policies or plans submitted to it in terms of hypothetical inquiry.

U. S. TRADE PACTS CALLED PEACE AIDS

League circles described the function of the special committee on the Sino-Japanese conflict as "purely exploratory."

They explained that the American observer would act as a "consultative member, invited to express the views of the United States but probably not to vote."

The committee itself, being a free agent, may recommend any course it sees fit, but the selling prevailed in League circles that its first step probably will be to investigate the possibility of mediation between China and Japan.

tion as a "safeguarding" factor for world peace, the secretary of state at a press conference prior to his luncheon address, said he saw nothing in the European situation today to indicate an immediate war was likely. Even in the event of war, he asserted, he felt the United States would not become involved.

Nevertheless, Hull expressed himself as far from easy over conditions abroad. He declared a hopelessly unsound economic structure was responsible for the perilous European situation and predicted it would be aggravated when millions now engaged in manufacturing armament lost that employment.

Hull urged a liberalization of trade policies and was seconded in the President's letter to the conference.

Hopes for Peace. Significantly, his listeners believed, Secretary Eden emphasized British hopes for peace when he touched on Spain.

"One pledge I can give unequivocally to this assembly," he said, "is that the government I represent will spare no endeavor to prevent war from engulfing Europe."

Eden, mindful of "many good reasons to be satisfied with the economic history of the past year," envisaged trade as a road to international harmony.

"Differences of political ideology," he declared, "need not stultify economic co-operation or even prevent political tolerance."

"But there must be agreement on one point and that is that the restoration of economic conditions should be regarded as an objective policy and so, in political as in economic spheres, the world must choose peace."

Eden left little doubt that his warning was addressed primarily to Germany and Italy. He attacked their demands for colonies and access to raw materials.

Pledges Peaceful Purpose. His pledge of Britain's peaceful purposes was coupled with his statement of willingness to agree to reduction and limitation of armaments, the most encouraging notes in a speech that dwelt on the idea that "peoples of the world seem as far as ever from attaining peace."

Of Germany's demands for colonies, he said, "the problem of raw materials is not primarily, even substantially, one of colonies. All colonial territories taken together produce only about 3 per cent of the world supply of raw materials."

Turning to the measures to which Britain has resorted in the face of a steadily rearing world, Eden said:

"The British naval personnel is being expanded at a rate without precedent in our country in time of peace," he asserted.

"Only on rare occasions in our history have comparable naval efforts been made."

"At the same time, the program for expansion and re-equipment of our airforce is going forward with the result that a formidable increase in our offensive as well as defensive power is being effected, while the equipment of our land forces has proceeded with increasing momentum."

"Since last I spoke, the continuous growth of industry for production of all three services has been taking place at vast extent."

Spain Refused Seat.

Earlier, 52 states gave the Madrid-Valencia government only 23 of a necessary 32 votes to declare her re-eligible for a seat in the council. Five votes were thrown out as defective or blank.

Spain's defeat does not affect her standing as plaintiff before the League against Germany and Italy on her charges that they are intervening in the Spanish Civil War. Her legal status as a member of the League was not impaired.

Eden commended the United

State for the "vigorous, consistent campaign against world trade obstacles and offered to abate preferential tariffs in British colonies when they seemed unfair and restricted international trade."

"This offer," he said, "of course must be made subject to such reservations as may be necessary to secure reciprocal advantages to colonial products and meet competition of excessively low-cost producers.

"This offer is merely an extension of policy which has guided the United Kingdom in our commercial relations with foreign countries. We always have been ready and still are ready to discuss with any country any proposals that country thinks likely to be of mutual benefit."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

In Gloria Herford's grammar school days in San Francisco, Mr. Herford, always prosperous and busy, becomes fashionable as well as his pretty wife Ada selects a new home in Sealight, a fashionable suburb. Gloria is sent to one of California's finest schools and spends her summers with her parents at Lake Tahoe. When Gloria is 19 her mother wants to give her a coming-out party but Gloria vetoes the idea. She takes a course in typewriting and stenography, then in accounting and gets a job at $40 a month as assistant manager of Lockwood sanatorium at Sausalito. Her heart falls when she sees the old uncared-for wooden building and the odd assortment of furnishings; she is more depressed when she learns that the sanatorium is the frequent residence of the result of too much liquor. The dozen or so "patients" are old people who pay $100 a month. When Carrie Lockwood is sent to the attractive but at times gloomy country estate, Gloria takes an allowance equaling his $33 a week bank salary. After the wedding at her aunt's country estate, Gloria takes a light in keeping their little home in the city but in anticipation of another member of the family, they move to a little Spanish type of farmhouse at Sausalito across the bay. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

"Well," Gloria had answered cheerfully, "and suppose they do, Miss Brooks. Wouldn't that be a pleasant way out for most of them? A movie and a chocolate milk shake, and then—out. I'd like to go that way!"

"I'm afraid you have very extraordinary ideas," Miss Brooks had said primly.

She had determined to report to Dr. Kaufmann that her assistant, Miss Rudd, was not a trained worker in modern sanatorium methods and certainly would demoralize the patients if she had her way. Miss Brooks thought she would add that she did not personally feel it possible to work with Miss Rudd. There was something extremely flippant in Miss Rudd's approach to the undertaking. She must be made to understand that system must be introduced here, and order. Regular hours, firm, if sensible, rules, a strictly limited diet, and no spoiling; these had been Miss Brooks' ideals, and she had been prepared to enforce them.

Instead, most surprisingly, after her three-month trial, amiable old Dr. Kaufmann, who, of course, thought everything Miss Rudd did was perfection, had explained to Miss Brooks that they did not feel that she was happy here, not quite—perhaps—in sympathy with the plans of the new sanatorium. It was a home, after all. A home first and a sanatorium afterward.

Miss Brooks had accordingly disappeared, and to the bewildered Gloria Miss Brooks' job had been offered. Two hundred and fifty dollars a month, and full charge of the nurses, patients, the two indoor servants, the gardener, meals, budget, laundry, finances—everything.

And all that had happened almost three years ago.

"Have you a nurse you could lend me tomorrow, Miss Rudd?" "I certainly have, Dr. Pitcher." Gloria, immaculate in a plain frock and broad-brimmed hat, stood smiling in the mottled green light of sunshine and shadow; the square little sandy-haired man blinked at her through his glasses. The two had met on the terrace between the big house and what was now known as the "pitcher research." Gloria had hardly seen her neighbor since his arrival a week ago. He had not been able to dine with her and Dr. Kaufmann on the night of their arrival; his mother, he had explained, had been too tired. After that he and the old, delicate woman had disappeared into their own quarters, and, although Gloria had been more than once to call on the invalid, she had not chanced on those occasions to see the son.

"I have a case coming from town—my own nurse will arrange the room and take care of him after the operation," he said. "But I would like a good nurse in the surgery. You would be too busy yourself to give me just that hour or two, perhaps? It's a delicate matter or I would not ask you."

"But I'm not a trained nurse, Doctor. I'm simply superintendent," she said, a little confused.

"You say, 'simply,' he said, with an air of tripping her up. "But there is nothing simple in all this."

"When it's all running so smoothly it's simple enough."

Dr. Pitcher looked at her meditatively. "Some day I'd like to go over it with you."

"It would surprise you! It's anything but sanitary," Gloria laughed. "Some of the rooms look like rummage sales and some one is always cooking."

"But surely—" he said, with a slight frown. He stopped; she was aware he was deliberately abandoning the subject. After all, it wasn't his business; "You're going out?" he asked.

"Thursday afternoon. I always go home after lunch, and don't come back until after supper."

"You're walking?"

"It's only half a mile."

"May I walk with you, then?"

"I was speaking of my patient tomorrow," Dr. Walker and Dr. Street will come over; we're to try the gland transplantation. It will be very interesting. But of course we must have a nurse."

"I'll give you Partridge; she's the best we have. The others are only practical nurses, most of them."

She says she's married in love with you, too," Gloria added in her thoughts; "it'll give her a break."

We want," Gloria said aloud, "we want to start a training school some day, but of course I'm not qualified to manage that, and we'd have to build on quite a big wing."

"How long has the sanatorium been open?"

"About three years, this time," Gloria laughed. "It's had all sorts of ups and downs," she went on. "An old German woman opened it first, for her friends, really. It was just an old wooden house then, with bay windows and a cupola. She made quite a lot of money and retired. Then a Miss Lockwood bought it; she was clever, too. But unfortunately she drank."

Karl Pitcher laughed out suddenly, and Gloria's serious expression broke into laughter, too.

"That's when I first came here," she said. "That's—oh, almost six years ago. The old people liked Miss Lockwood. And she really was wonderful with them. It was from her that I got the idea of letting them really live their own lives, and die their own way if they wanted to. But the whole place ran down terribly; people would come here to look at rooms and there wouldn't be a room in order, and poor Caroline—Miss Lockwood, that was—would totter out of her room keeling—"

"So you took hold?"

"No; the Bayview Sanatorium and Home took hold; it was a company. They had no use for me; they put tons of money into it, rebuilt it practically; it all went terribly modern and sanitary and efficient. Only—people wouldn't come live in it."

They were nearing the little Spanish farmhouse now, and as her eye fell upon two figures in the lane Gloria suddenly broke away from her companion and ran like a skimming bird toward them. The man heard the ecstasy of her cry: "Ah, my darling! Come here and kiss your Mummy!"

She was on her knees, the child caught in her arms. She turned her radiant face to smile at the doctor, over her shoulder, as he came up, and he saw that the child's golden-brown eyes were like hers and that the dark gold-brown of her young head mingled exactly in color with his.

"Dr. Pitcher, this is my little boy, Jimmy; this is the new doctor, over at the sanatorium that I told you about. And this is Carmela, Doctor, who takes such good care of Jimmy."

"We came to meet you," Jimmy said. "You did indeed! This is where we live, Doctor. Will you come in and meet my mother, and perhaps—is Mr. Rudd home, Carmela?"

"He said he'd get the fourteen."

"Ah, then he won't be home yet. But if you'll come in we'll take good care of you, Doctor, and give you something cool to drink. You'll have to dine with us sooner or later, and meet Dr. Bagley; no, not your kind. He's a scientist; he's way up in engineering or something, I don't know quite what the letters are. But he's our neighbor, and we think they're the most interesting people on the hill."

She had risen from her knees, but she was still stooping sideways to hold tightly to the child. He was a handsome child, the man thought. Two girls of perhaps eight or nine, twins in faded, colorful smocks, had now come racing to the scene; he saw their enthusiastic greeting of "Aunt Gloria!" heard their triumphant shout: "You're coming to our house to-night for supper! We're having peach and marshmallow ice cream. Molly's making it!"

"These are the Bagley girls," Gloria said, disentangling herself from their pipstems. "You won't stay, Doctor? I'm privileged to ask anyone I like to Mrs. Bagley's."

He shook his head, left her. Gloria and the children went in at the Bagley's gate. Tony was in his chair on the lawn. He looked up and smiled.

"They found you, eh? Peter home?"

SALT OF SEA AND LAND.

II—Work of the Sun.
Every hour that passes means more salt added to the oceans and seas. All through the day, and all through the night, rivers are taking loads of salt to large bodies of water.

Almost the same story can be told about Great Salt Lake. It does not have outlets to keep the salt moving away at the same rate it comes in. The result is that it becomes more and more salty.

Oceans are not nearly so salty as the Dead Sea or Great Salt Lake. A gallon of ocean water contains only about five ounces of salt. There is so much ocean water, however, that a small part of the salt in it would make a mountain higher than Mount Everest. The Atlantic Ocean alone contains enough salt to make mountains of salt larger than all the earth's mountains put together.

Sea water and ocean water give people a large part of their salt supply. In some places, ocean water at high tide is allowed to flow over low lands. The water is kept from flowing back by means of "gates." Then the sun dries up the water, and leaves the salt.

France, Portugal, Spain, Italy, China, India and the United States are among the countries where salt is obtained by letting the sun work on sea water.

LASH ON CONVICTS BARRED IN RULING MADE BY YEOMANS

Solitary Confinement Only Punishment Remaining for Georgia Prison Camps.

Lashes for Georgia convicts fell back into disuse yesterday after an abortive attempt to resurrect them from 13 years of prohibition.

The request of wardens of the state for permission to bring back the mode of punishment banned in 1923 brought from Attorney General M. J. Yeomans a ruling whipping of prisoners overstepped the bill of rights in the state constitution.

"There can be no effort to bring back the lash in the light of the attorney general's opinion," Governor E. D. Rivers asserted.

From Troy M. Raines, chairman of the Bibb county commission and advocate of the lash before a meeting of wardens here early this month, came an expression of regret.

Solitary Punishment. "There never will be a chain gang in Georgia until they put the lash back," Raines declared at Macon.

Solitary confinement cells remained the lone method of punishing convicts under rules of the prison commission.

Use of the cells followed abolishment of stocks, in turn successor of the lash which wardens for many years used to keep their prisoners in line.

Proposals to reinstate the whip and the whipping post came when the wardens assembled on Rivers' call to "see what can be done about wholesale escapes, reaching the proportions of a scandal."

The lash was one of their suggestions. "Shoot to kill" orders to stop escapes was the other. They were told guards had the right to use the firearms they carry—customarily double-barreled shotguns with at least one side loaded with buckshot.

Modernization Plans. Rivers declared the attorney general's ruling would "in no wise" affect plans for "modernization" of the state's prison system. The plans call for housing of the "toughest" prisoners at the new Tattnall county prison, and the use of road working camps as "honor camps" for prisoners whose conduct indicates they will abide by prison rules.

Further, the plan calls for engaging of a penologist and psychiatrist at Tattnall to aid in handling and rehabilitating prisoners. Yeomans based his ruling on two sections of the constitution. They were:

"Neither banishment beyond the state nor whipping, as a punishment for crime, shall be allowed."

Yeoman's Ruling. "Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted; nor shall any person be abused in being arrested, while under arrest, or in prison."

Yeoman wrote: "The greater always includes the lesser. Since the constitution provides that 'whipping as a punishment for crime' shall not be allowed it would be preposterous to hold that the wardens, who are employees of the state or counties, have greater authority than the general assembly and the courts and can do indirectly what the general assembly and the courts can not do directly, that is, use the lash or the whip as a punishment for the lesser offense of infractions of prison rules and regulations."

4-H CLUB PICTURE COMING TO FULTON

Film To Be Shown at Alpharetta Saturday.

Two hours of talking pictures, featuring the dramatized version of the novel, "Under the 4-H Flag," will be shown at 8 o'clock Saturday in Alpharetta for members and those interested in the 4-H movement. S. D. Truitt, Fulton county agent, said yesterday.

Purpose of the admission-free entertainment, including a 4-H newsreel, and a cartoon comedy, is to stimulate interest in the aims and aspirations of the agricultural movement, Truitt said.

Fulton county's 4-H organization will also have an opportunity to participate in an attendance contest. Prizes will be given on the basis of the proportion of the county's rural population attending the moving picture showing.

All counties in which the picture is shown will participate in the contest, with the winning county getting a $1,000 check to be devoted to 4-H Club uses.

TRANSFER FIRMS ATTACK NEW TAX

Maintenance Levy Fight Reaches Supreme Court.

Arguments in the attack of transfer companies on constitutionality of the state's new bus and truck maintenance tax were heard yesterday in the Georgia supreme court.

In what he termed a "double-barreled attack," Lindley W. Camp, attorney for the transfer companies, contested the law, explaining that the transfer companies contend the tax does not apply to them under an exemption law in the act removing liability for companies paying municipal franchise, or occupational tax, "and-or" operating over a fixed route.

First of several cases to reach the supreme court on constitutionality of the act, the case yesterday was brought by a group of transfer companies in opposition to the tax, income from which is earmarked for operation of the new post roads division of the State Highway Department.

Every County To Send Spellers To State-Wide Bee in Atlanta

Large Number of Inquiries Pour Into Office of M. D. Collins, Showing Wide Interest in Event To Be Held on October 15.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, yesterday predicted "every county in Georgia will be represented in the state-wide spelling bee October 15 at the Southeastern Fair at Lakewood." His assertion was predicated, he said, on the "large number of inquiries which we have received and the universal interest already exhibited."

"Scores of counties already are mapping local elimination contests to select representatives and alternates to compete for the handsome silver loving cup offered by The Atlanta Constitution and the cash prizes made available by executives of the Southeastern Fair Association," he said. "It is my opinion that every county in the state will take a keen interest in the contest and that representatives will swarm Atlanta."

In addition to winning The Constitution trophy, the state champion will get $50 in cash; the runner-up $30 in cash, and the third-place winner, $20 in cash.

Elimination Contest. County School Superintendent J. H. McGiboney, of Carroll county, yesterday announced that tentative plans already have been laid to hold the elimination there on October 1. Contests will be held in several points in the county and a grand county finale will be held at Carrollton to designate representatives.

Claudia Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lawson, of Price, who was Hall county's representative in the setto last year, is already preparing to enter the lists again, it was announced at Gainesville.

Tryouts are under way in every one of Hall county's 30 schools. County School Superintendent W. L. Walker said. Each school is holding its own bee to select its winner and a general county-wide contest at Gainesville will be held to pick the county's best.

The county-wide roundup probably will be held about October 1. Professor John T. Miller, of Brenau College, will call the words for Hall county's finale.

State-Wide Interest. Telephone calls, telegrams and letters to the state department from all sections of the state attest to the state-wide interest which is being exhibited in the war of words.

Attaches of the state educational office describe the interest as "phenomenal."

Dr. Collins has extended the date for listing entrants from the various counties until October 1, and has left emergency entries open as late as October 12 in order "that every county in the state may select its best speller and be given the opportunity to compete on a parity with any school of the state."

Many of the rural schools opened late, and The Constitution and all others sponsoring the competition are anxious that every county have the same chance.

Instructions Given. Following are all the instructions needed by any county in order to enter the competition:

1. Each county may send one representative (boy or girl) from any elementary or high school of the county chosen in a county-wide competition of its best spellers. An alternate should be designated to represent the county if for any reason the principal cannot be present.

2. The full name and full address of the successful representative and alternate from the county should be mailed immediately to Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, Atlanta, Ga.

3. The contest is open to grammar or high school students, either from county, city or private schools, except those who have won first prize previously at the Southeastern Fair. Contestants must have enrolled as school students in the

DEATH TO BE ASKED IN FOLSOM KILLINGS

Warden's Condition Still Critical; One Guard Holds Own; Another Improves.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 20. (P)—Death in California's lethal gas chamber will be demanded for five Folsom convicts who tried an abortive prison break in which a guard and two convicts were killed and eight men wounded Sunday.

District Attorney Babecek issued a call today for the Sacramento county grand jury to meet Wednesday. He said he would ask the jurors to indict the five on first degree murder charges.

The condition of Warden Clarence Larkin was described as "critical." Hospital attendants said the condition of W. J. Ryan, captain of the guard, was "fair." Ryan's lung was punctured.

Condition of the other wounded guard, James Kern, was improved.

EDGAR FISKE ALLEN DIES. ELYRIA, Ohio, Sept. 20. (P)—Edgar Fiske Allen, 75, president of the International Society for Crippled Children, died here today.

county they represent during the year 1937.

4. The Smith, Hammond & Co. "Spelling for Everyday Use," a state-adopted textbook for the seventh grade, will be used first. If any contestants survive that test, judges will revert to the old-fashioned Blue Back Speller and continue to give out words until the state champion speller is selected. If words may be spelled correctly two or more ways, the spelling as shown in the books mentioned above will govern.

5. As soon as the representative and alternate of a county have been decided upon, the full names and addresses should be filed immediately with Dr. Collins' office. Immediately on receipt of this information, Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, will send an identification badge to every representative and also a complimentary ticket of admission to the fairgrounds. Also included will be information to the representative as to how to reach the grounds, the place on the grounds where the bee will be held, the time it begins and any other information necessary.

Screen Story Shelves Fight Over Textbook

Acceptance of a textbook revised to Georgia's Dr. Crawford W. Long as the discoverer of ether as an anesthetic was shelved yesterday as the State Board of Education turned its attention to a motion picture company reported ready to film the life of Dr. William Morton as the discoverer.

Protest over use of the book, "Descriptive Chemistry and Physics," arose when it revealed as the first users of ether two Massachusetts doctors, Morton and Warren.

The board yesterday agreed to accept the book from the Henry Holt & Company, the publishers, provided "it is corrected on a nationwide basis," M. D. Collins, superintendent of schools, said.

The publishers' agents have agreed to revise the text and to include in future publications of the book a picture of the memorial to Dr. Long. Dr. Collins said. Meanwhile, the board turned its attention during the afternoon to drawing up resolutions calling on the film company to give full credit to Dr. Long for discovery of ether in 1842, whereas Dr. Morton's first use of the medical aid was in 1846.

A special Hollywood newspaper correspondent had said the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company planned to film the life of Dr. Morton as the first user of ether.

'MODEL' FUGITIVE GETS ADDED TERM IN PRISON

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 20. (P)—A Pennsylvania man who fled Rockview penitentiary to marry and live a "model life" in North Carolina for nearly seven years was given an additional prison term today for the escape.

Judge M. Ward Fleming sentenced Kenneth A. Reed to serve 4 to 12 years in Western State penitentiary at the end of his regular sentence.

DARKENED BERLIN FIGHTS WAR GAMES

Millions Listen as Hitler and Aides Stage Nation's Greatest Maneuver.

BERLIN, Sept. 20. (P)—Berlin was cloaked in spooky gloom tonight while millions fought the spectre of war in the greatest of the third Reich's war games.

Little lights and great shadows played over the darkened capital. Deep secrecy guarded the movements of the combined army, navy and air forces in the northern provinces of Mecklenburg and Pomerania where other cities were "black-out" in air defense practice.

Berlin at night appeared a deserted city. Street cars operated with barely visible lights. Today's air "raid," a feat of realism, will not be repeated. It halted the daily life of the whole city as sirens screamed the approach of bombers.

The morning crowds dived into cellars. Men, smeared with red paint to simulate injury, ran about the streets. Anti-aircraft batteries atop buildings roared at the droning warplanes. "Wrecked houses," "twisted stairways" and "refugees" were strewn on streets.

To the north, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler watched his 12 army corps, prepared by weeks of drill, swing into action. Marshal Werner Von Blomberg, reichminister of war, was in command of the week of maneuvers.

PLAGUE HITS MANCHUKUO. HSINKING, Manchukuo, Sept. 20. (P)—One hundred and ninety-eight cases of bubonic plague were reported here and in the surrounding country today by the Domei (Japanese) News Agency. The plague is spreading, Domei said.

Jane Kiser Thrills Over Memories Of Recent Cruise to North Cape

By Sally Forth.

THIS is the first day of fall and those of Atlanta's younger set who have indulged in delightful summers of travel are now back in school with thrilling memories of how they spent the past few months. Jane Kiser, a junior at North Avenue school and the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon P. Kiser, sailed four months ago with her mother on the Rotterdam for a North Cape cruise to Iceland, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Russia. After the cruise, they went to Paris and London before meeting the boat again at Southampton to sail for home on August 11.

Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden—the "Land of the Midnight Sun"—leave Jane with such memories as climbing North Cape at 12:30 o'clock at night, and returning to the boat for a champagne breakfast; the pleasure of winning second prize, a bottle of apricot brandy, at the costume ball held on board ship after leaving one of these countries. Jane wore a Spanish costume on this auspicious and prize-winning occasion. Leaving Hammerfest, the Laplanders put on an exhibition for the passengers by driving a herd of reindeer into the water and around the ship.

In London, Jane's favorite city, she saw the quaint little store, about 200 years old, where Charles Dickens wrote "The Christmas Carol," story of Little Nell. In Paris, they saw the exposition, in all of its lighted glory, from the Eiffel Tower.

Mrs. Kiser and Jane were happy to run into Anne Atkins and her father in a souvenir store in Russia just as they were leaving Leningrad, and they had a few moments of comparing notes about their interesting summers before rejoining their particular travel groups.

A SHINING example of how much mothers have changed in the past few years and how untrifled they now remain in even the most trying of situations was the calm young matron Sally recently saw walking through an Atlanta department store.

Her young son, who had been toddling along by her side, suddenly grabbed a large, fancy and very expensive bottle of perfume from the counter he was passing and began excitedly to wave it over his head, crying, "Look, mamma, look!" His mother never slowed up her pace, never turned around. She said quite casually, "You'd better put it down, dear, for if you break it, I shall just have to leave you here. I haven't the money to pay for it."

ELIZABETH FITTEN GOLD-SMITH is the author of "Patches From the Sky," a book of verse dedicated to all mankind. It contains more than 100 short poems which have lots of acceptable advice done up in sugar-coated capsules, because the author sensed that friends are adverse to nonsugary advice.

Mrs. Goldsmith leads her readers from despairing depths into sunny roads that lead to paths of happiness and to a new outlook on life. So many readers clamored for copies of "Patches From the Sky" that the author had the poems published in book form and bound in sky-blue cloth. The title and the name of the author are lettered in scarlet on the front of the book.

Great understanding of joy, love, health and courage is expressed in the poems printed on 62 pages of "Patches From the Sky." Mrs. Goldsmith's first attempt at writing verse shows imaginative thought and artistic conception.

Friendly Twelve.

Mrs. Wilmer Anderson entertained the Friendly Twelve Club recently at her home on Erin avenue. Heart dice was played, Mesdames Bryant, H. R. Ford and S. C. Roby won prizes.

Present were Mesdames P. J. Wilbanks, William Bryant, T. A. Stallworth, H. R. Ford, J. H. Kirk, H. E. Robinson, T. Everett, Jack Kilgore, J. P. Wall, S. C. T. Roby and the hostess.

Mrs. Wilbanks invited the club to meet with her on September 29.

Miss Elaine Chapman Is Honor Guest

Mrs. J. D. Dodd will be hostess at luncheon Saturday at 1 o'clock at her home at 170 Lakeview avenue, complimenting Miss Elaine Chapman, whose marriage to James Thomas Busbee Jr., takes place October 2.

Guests will be Miss Louise Shackelford, Doris Adams, Marion Birch, Miss Lou Hayes, Mesdames J. D. Seay Jr., Walton Folke, F. D. Chapman.

Mrs. F. D. Chapman entertains at a trolley tea next Sunday from 4 to 6 o'clock in compliment to her daughter, Miss Chapman.

Miss Layday Smith, Doris Adams, Mrs. W. H. Talbot, Mrs. K. H. Hanner will assist in entertaining. Seventy-five guests have been invited.

Mrs. W. H. Talbot and Mrs. Walton Folke entertained at luncheon for Miss Chapman on September 11.

Guests included Misses Edith Wade, Marion Myrick, Mesdames Vance Barton, H. E. Sheats, H. W. Ferguson, J. L. Bates, C. C. Myrick, F. W. B. Fambrough and F. D. Chapman.

Officers Elected.

Blessed Chanel Young People's Club elected the following officers for the coming year yesterday: Joe Kelley, president; Mary Hunt, vice president; Rosalie Troncalli, secretary; Catherine Angier, treasurer; executive committee, Bill Bruckner, Tommy Clark and Joe Hunt.

Mrs. Harry G. Poole Issues Invitations to Registered Women

Mrs. Harry G. Poole, on behalf of the last groups entertained, and of the Fulton County Democratic Women's Club, of which Mrs. Max E. Land is president, issued invitations to the registered women voters of the militia districts of Palmetto, Fairburn, Union City, Red Oak and South Bend to meet at her home on Cascade Road in the Country at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

As director of organization of the democratic women of south Fulton county, Mrs. Poole established headquarters in the little theater on the grounds of her home where the women of her section may feel free to meet at any time for study or discussion. The guests will be received in the "big house," where coffee will be served by Mesdames J. H. Gibbs, Jere Wells, W. H. Hill, H. T. Bledsoe, assisted by Misses Martha Stewart and Jane Gilbert Poole, after which they will repair to the little theater, where an interesting program will be presented. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Land, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. Poole and Miss Sara Swanson, of Fairburn, assistant director of south Fulton, who will make brief talks.

An interesting feature will be the showing of a motion picture.

For Miss Whitten And Mr. Robertson

Miss Dorothy Collier gives a bridge tea on September 29 at her Peachtree road home, as a complimentary gesture to Miss Elizabeth Whitten, whose marriage to John Robertson takes place this fall. The attractive bride-elect will be honor guest at the luncheon given at the Biltmore on October 8 by Mrs. Ransom Burt.

Miss Whitten and Mr. Robertson will be central figures at the aperitif party given by Mrs. Kathleen Nelson on October 10, at her home on Woodward Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Broeman's party for Miss Whitten and her fiancé takes place on October 16, after the Duke-Tech football game. Miss Jane Sharp will entertain for the betrothed pair at a tea on October 17, at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Young Matrons.

Young Matrons' Class, Baptist Tabernacle, meets Thursday evening at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Milton Cooper, 668 Gillette street, S. W.

couple is residing in Quitman where Mr. Shelley holds a position.

Society Events

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21. Mrs. Carroll Payne Jones entertains for Miss Lamar Peschau, bride-elect.

Mrs. Stokes Kent gives a theater party for Miss Mildred Stipe, bride-elect.

Mrs. Lewis Saley and Mrs. W. J. Whitfield give a lingerie shower at their home on Erie avenue for Miss Martha Garner, bride-elect.

Miss Marion Birch honors Miss Elaine Chapman, bride-elect, at a party at her home in Cascade Heights.

The Sigma Delta Xi sorority gives a hayride and hobo party at the farm of Miss Marguerite Pefinis for the rushees.

Mrs. Lynwood Jester will hold open house at her home, 1100 Gordon street.

Mrs. J. C. Timmerman entertains at tea from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Harvard road in honor of Mrs. C. S. New, of New York, and Mrs. J. C. Timmerman Jr.

Mrs. Ray Edmondson will entertain at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock for the Charities Circle, of which she is a member, at Lullwater.

Miss Hope Is Honored At Bridal Luncheons.

Miss Meredith Hope, whose marriage to Roy F. White will be an event of October 10, was honor guest at a delightful luncheon given recently by Mrs. L. P. Lazemby at her home on Barnett street. A charming feature of the party was the miscellaneous shower for the bride-to-be.

Covers were laid for Miss Hope, Mesdames E. S. Lammer Jr., James Michael, Malcolm J. Long, E. F. Lindgren, H. P. Hope, Miss Anne Wallace Lazemby and Mrs. L. P. Lazemby.

Mrs. T. H. Simmons gave a luncheon on Friday at her home on Inman circle, honoring Miss Hope.

The dining table had for its central decoration a complete toy train on tracks, marked "Honey-moon Express." On the observation platform of the train was standing a miniature bride and groom, while around the train was the bride's luggage, a miniature hatbox, suitcase and golf clubs. The place cards were hand-painted brides' slippers and favors to the guests were miniature white bridal bouquets.

Guests were Miss Hope, Mrs. E. F. Lindgren, Mrs. A. H. Frye, of Griffin, Ga., Mrs. H. P. Hope, Miss Virginia Simmons and the hostess.

Scholarship Offered.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday.—A little before 8 last evening I heard a cheery voice outside my door and my youngest son, John, had arrived from Nahant, Mass., with his fiancée, Miss Anne Clark. He has inherited one of his father's traits. He usually arrives a little ahead of the time he tells you he will get in. Some of the other members of the family usually a little behind time.

Dr. Homer Rainey came up from Washington yesterday afternoon to spend the night. He told me the two-year period of the survey on the youth situation and youth's needs, which his commission has carried on, is drawing to a close and many of the surveys are completed. Two of the results of this survey are interesting. He says the first demand of every youngster is for a job and there is a growing realization that having a skill of some kind facilitates getting that job. The second is for training for marriage and home life. Many of them complain their parents have not prepared them and that school has done little for them in getting them ready for this most important part of their life.

I am eagerly awaiting some of the conclusions which this commission will arrive at as a result of the facts which have been brought to light. I think it should help us greatly in the educational field.

Miss Dickerman and I asked Dr. Rainey if he had come to any conclusions, as a by-product of these surveys, on the most valuable service private schools for boys and girls can render today. Private schools reach but a small number of the people and their justification must lie in the fact that they make a contribution which public schools are not able to make. I feel private schools should do the real educational experimentation and pioneer work in pointing the way to better preparation for meeting the new problems which will confront the generation growing up today.

I was out on the porch to greet the President when he arrived this morning and we went in to breakfast at once. They tell me a very great number of telegrams have been received since his speech on the constitution. Most of them seem to indicate that the people liked the idea that the constitution is a layman's document which does not require a lawyer's interpretation.

John, Anne and I started out to ride after breakfast and, just as we went out, it started to rain. After going around the field once, we came home and got ready for church. I would not have given up so quickly ordinarily, but I had visions of my hair being completely soaked and having to sit through the service with a hat pulled down over a very wet head of hair. I had some friends for lunch and then John, Anne and Captain Harrison went off to the ball game at Mr. Lowell Thomas' on Quaker Hill. I wanted to go also, but the idea of leaving on Wednesday is beginning to weigh heavily upon me and I am remembering all the things which should be done and which have not been done.

Make War on Your Extra Pounds With a Low-Calory Diet

How much would you like to lose? Five pounds? Ten pounds? Twenty? Even more?

You can easily vanquish the fat that disguises the buoyant, slim self that is really you. You can control your weight to a half-pound by switching to low-calory food.

No hungry pangs. If you keep to 1,200 calories a day you lose as much as two pounds a week. But on that calory count you get three square meals a day and the vitamins you need for pep, good looks. To really lose, though, you must enlist for the duration of the war. No deserting to a hot dog or a bag of peanuts at the football game. One hot dog with roll plus a medium bag of shelled peanuts is 632 calories. Nibble instead at an apple and a bag of popcorn; they're only 200 calories.

Do you love waffles for Sunday morning breakfast? Take raisin bread instead. One buttered waffle is 300 calories. A slice of raisin bread toasted, which needs much less butter than a waffle, is only 125 calories.

For your dessert try a two-egg sponge cake. It's delicious and is only about 100 calories a slice. But give the rich fudge cake to your non-dieting family. It has 400 calories in a slice.

And how does this sample low-calory luncheon sound to you? One glass tomato juice, 1-2 cup macaroni and cheese, 1 cup cole slaw, mineral oil dressing, 2 slices Melba toast, 1 glass skim-milk, 1 medium bunch Concord grapes. It's only 378 calories.

Our 40-page booklet, "Change Your Weight for Beauty's Sake," gives two weeks of low-calory menus—a calory chart, exercises, health hints—to make you slim.

Send 15c for our booklet, "CHANGE YOUR WEIGHT FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE," to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Writers' Club

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: What about writing on the subject of the little fellow; has he the right to live and enjoy life; or is he one of those unfortunate put on earth to be criticized and scoffed at by the more fortunate six footers? Do we ever see a little fellow starring in the movies? No, the little fellow is generally a dried up, ape-like individual, half-simple who goes along as a foil for the six footers. There are plenty of clever, many little men who could play excellent parts but they don't get them. If the producers gave them a chance the girls would all go across the street to see Robert Taylor; or would they? You figure it out and write on the subject.

LITTLE FELLOW.

ANSWER: Yes, the girls would all go across the street to see Robert Taylor glide across the silver screen. Defining the little fellow hasn't chance to crash the cinema lot as anything but a clown actor; for this is sacred ground dedicated to beauty, brawn, masculine muscle and feminine sex appeal. Yet the Car of all the flickers is no Go-llath and among producers, photographers, directors and scenario writers there are several misfits.

The fact that the little fellow can't star on the screen doesn't imply that he is out of luck in life. The flickers don't provide the only way for a man to strut his stuff or get rich quick. Box office distinction isn't the only one for a man to aspire to. Being a matinee idol isn't the greatest accomplishment in life, though the idol's meat may be sweet to the taste and soothing to the vanity.

Perhaps the big man does start out with an advantage over the little one. Ever see a picture of the wild animals approaching the jungle water hole? All step back to give right of way to the biggest hunk of flesh, and on down in sequence of size until the smallest ones are the last to quench their thirst. The big man is likely to assume his right to go first merely because he is big. But it isn't long before he discovers that the law of the jungle doesn't carry through in civilized society; that while brawn may give a fellow a running start, it takes brains to keep him going until he gets somewhere.

Review your history young man, and you will find comfort and encouragement in plenty. Napoleon's meagre five feet three didn't deter him from fighting, writing, and fooling the fair sex. Royal ladies, commoners, widows, maidens of all ages and classes fell for his blarneyishments. If it is true that feminine favor is the chief boost to a man's good opinion of himself the little fellows haven't got anything to worry about; for despite the fact that every girl their thirst to look up to her boyfriend and every mother boasts about her six-foot son if he's anything over five feet nine, the undersized boys don't go begging where feminine favor is concerned.

However small he may be, if a man has dignity nobody tries to kick him around. As a protective weapon, personal dignity is far more effective than size, or gun. The man who has it carries a placard which reads "Posted Land; No Trespassing Permitted." All comers can read that placard and they respect it.

Finally, while every six-footer is proud of his height, only the stuffed shirts who have nothing but height to be proud of scoff at the little fellows who, for all they know, may be their betters.

A Tooth Hold on Beauty

Apricot solstice, served on "food for beauty" luncheon, combines 21 raw fruits and vegetables, valuable sources of minerals and vitamins essential to perfect teeth.

Good teeth are part of good looks. No American woman is regarded completely beautiful without a lovely smile and no smile is better than its teeth. All of which may explain why so many foreigners return home saying that American women are the most beautiful in the world.

Modern American children have strong, well-shaped teeth. This is largely explained by the carefully chosen diet given them. An internationally noted beauty authority believes that adolescent girls and mature women should study their diet with equal care. In fact, so sincere is her belief in the importance of diet for good looks, that in her Fifth Avenue salon she has a Zurich room and health bar where "food for beauty" is served her clients seeking a complete beauty routine. This food consists of 21 raw fruits and vegetables, rich in essentials and vitamins, prepared in appetizing and health-giving combinations. The vegetables and fruits selected are gold mines of strength and beauty for the teeth, containing an abundance of minerals, including calcium and phosphorus, and the Vitamins A, B and C, particularly important to the development of perfect teeth.

Despite faithful cleansing and general care, many women seem unable to halt the formation of tartar on their teeth. Tartar is really the villain in dental hygiene. It is caused by acid degradation of the food eaten. Meat is one of the most prolific causes of this tartar-forming acid degradation. That is why this beauty expert urges women to make these raw fruits and vegetables at least 50 per cent of the daily diet—because they have a minimum tendency to tartar forming.

The results in general health and vitality, and of course in the health and appearance of the teeth, will be amazing. "The following 'food for beauty' luncheon is just one of the many served in New York:

MENU FOR BEAUTIFUL TEETH.

Breakfast. Orange and grapefruit juice. Poached egg on toast. Dry toast. Coffee, hot milk.

Luncheon. Vegetable juice. Apricot Solstice (recipe below). Melba toast. Herbal bouillon. Fruit, milk.

Dinner. Mixed green salad. Broiled steak. Boiled potatoes, buttered broccoli. Celery. Raspberries and cream. Milk.

Recipe for Apricot Solstice. One ripe apricot, 3 almonds, 1-2 cup shredded cabbage, 1-4 green pepper, shredded; 1-4 cup shredded fresh pineapple, 1 lettuce cup, 3 romaine leaves, 3 ripe cherries stuffed with cream cheese, 3 fresh strawberries, 1 carrot, grated; 1 turnip, grated; 1 tablespoon chopped green peas, 1 tablespoon scraped green corn.

Fill the lettuce cup with the halved apricots, cabbage, pineapple and green pepper. Place the cup in center of a large plate. Fill each romaine leaf with an attractive combination of raw vegetables and garnish with sliced strawberries. Arrange cherries as garnish between romaine cups. Serve with French dressing made of olive oil and lemon juice.

MAKE A BOW.

We've been busy trying to get things in the most convenient places.

It's high time somebody took time out to make a bow to the common everyday metal kitchen cupboards units people have these days—all her little nails and hooks are both superfluous and clutter. Because those metal cupboard units have convenient places in reach for everything you can think of. All very true, if you're lucky enough to have as modern a kitchen as all that. But most of us have to manage with common garden variety kitchens that aren't so handy. So it's up to us to arrange things in the most step-saving way possible. As for the clutter of having things hanging about well, if you mind it, better not do it. Personally we rather like to see shining pots and efficient tools hanging in neat rows. Makes us feel very expert, like a doctor with his instruments or a cabinet maker with his tools.

Another point to think about—many a lady allows her workshop openers and bottle openers she hung on nails adjacent to the shelf where she kept the canned goods and this is in reach of a working table surface. Her big mixing spoons separated, two hanging above the sink, two beside the stove. . . figure it out for yourself and you'll readily see that they're going to be used at those two points and not several steps away by the drawer where they'd been kept. Beside the stove she also added a cooking fork to hang on a nail.

Now you may say that—with the fine gleaming metal kitchen cupboards units people have these days—all her little nails and hooks are both superfluous and clutter. Because those metal cupboard units have convenient places in reach for everything you can think of. All very true, if you're lucky enough to have as modern a kitchen as all that. ## HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

ACETANILID HABIT.

Acetanilid is made of aniline (a coal tar product) and glacial acetic acid. Another name for it is phenylacetamide. It is an ingredient of scores of more or less popular tablets, pills, powders and drinks which purport to be remedies for "colds," grip, headache, neuralgia, neuritis, insomnia, fatigue, anxiety, fever, nervousness, rheumatism, epilepsy, whooping cough, seasickness, dysmenorrhea, lumbago, sciatica.

Phenacetin is another coal-tar derivative similar in effect to acetanilid. Phenacetin is sometimes called acetophenetidin. Antipyrin is still another coal-tar derivative of similar character; its chemical name is phenyl-dimethylpyrazolon.

Pyramidon is still another drug in the same class, otherwise known as amidopyrin.

Although these and other coal-tar derivatives possess individual differences in solubility, taste, appearance, rapidity of action, cost, etc., they are more or less interchangeable, and indeed a familiar nostrum that contains phenacetin this year may contain acetanilid instead next year, due to some change in the market or a desire to assure the world that the product contains no acetanilid.

The common action of these coal-tar derivatives is sedative to the sensory portion of nerves and spinal cord. That is, the drug benumbs sensibility to ache, pain or distress or discomfort of any kind. If that were all, the coal-tar drugs would be fine for denumbing consciousness of trouble. But unfortunately there are other actions or effects inseparable from the dulling of sensation. These drugs depress the circulation, and if taken frequently or habitually they disintegrate the blood, destroy red blood corpuscles. All of the coal-tar derivatives that benumb nerves interfere with the vital oxygen-carrying function of the blood. One of the characteristic signs of poisoning, generally chronic poisoning in habitual users of these drugs, is cyanosis, blueness which shows in the lips and the nails or in some instances blueness of the whole surface.

In the same mail today came these letters—one from an eastern state, one from a western state: "Husband consumes large quantities of (a drink which contains acetanilid). This has made his lips appear blue, also his skin. He buys it to use at home, also stops at a fountain to buy it wherever he finds it available, taking several doses a day. He drank excessively for years and has been trying to moderate the past year or two. He is 45, very nervous and irritable, hard to live with."

"What harm can result from the daily use of (the same drink) if a user takes a dose first thing on rising in the morning, before dinner in the evening, and again before retiring at night? The user does not take it for relief of after-effects of drinking but as relief from some feeling of need for the dose."

The preparation referred to by both letters originally contained acetanilid, but later phenacetin. There are on record numerous cases of fatal poisoning from its use. Probably thousands of victims are in a precarious state of health from the habit of resorting to these coal-tar drugs for relief of trifling complaints. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

TRUCK TIRES

The old slogan, "The recollection of quality remains long after the price is forgotten" still holds good. Buy something cheap and in a little while because of inferior quality it is gone and you know that you have wasted your money. Buy something of first-class quality and it lasts so long that you have forgotten the original investment and only remember the satisfactory service which you have secured.

THIS is why we urge you to look into the quality of FISK tires. Fisk is one of the oldest tires on the market and stand out in front today just like the old "Fisk Red-Top" stood out in years gone by. We tell you what you are buying and have never represented a SECOND line tire as being a FIRST.

Your life may depend on the tire. Buy Fisk—the only tire having antiriction cord which gives you double protection in the blow-out zone.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT

No. 74

Through the secret passage, Tarzan groped his way to Gonal's apartment. As he pushed open the door of the bedroom, she sat up. "It's glad you came back," she whispered. She was a sweet and gentle now as she had been venomous during his last visit to her.

"Wood and the rest of our party are to be killed tomorrow," Tarzan declared; "but you can help us escape. Will you?" Gonal, gazed up at him. "It would do no good. The powers of Mafka would drag all of you back, to die more horribly than you ever dreamed."

But Tarzan pressed the point. "If Mafka did not interfere, would the women obey you?" "Yes." "And if you had the opportunity, would you like to escape from Kaji?" Gonal nodded eager assent. "Get ready then," Tarzan said firmly; "and we shall take you with us."

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The ape-man turned to go. "We'll be back for you in a little while. You must be ready to help; you will have to give the orders to the warriors to let us pass." Gonal was seized with a fit of trembling. "I'll do as you say, but it will mean death for us all!"

MADRID IS SHAKEN BY REBELS' SHELLS IN BITTER FIGHT

Heavy Damage Inflicted in New Attack While Franco Claims Gain.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—(AP)—A devastating exchange of explosives shook Madrid today from dawn until after darkness.

Tonight the thunder of big guns and mines continued the city's fiercest artillery battle in months. The Agronomy Engineering school in University City, on Madrid's western edge, was destroyed by government mines. This almost completely ruined the University City, once one of the finest educational centers of all Europe.

The Clinical hospital, near by, a sturdy 2,000-room structure that cost 40,000,000 pesetas, and several others, still stood. Troops of Insurgent General Francisco Franco hold the hospital.

HELEN KELLER BETTER.

Chief Hornsby Bags Liquor in Foot Race

Chief Hornsby did a bit of liquor chasing personally yesterday.

On his way to headquarters, the police chief saw a negro carrying a bulky package on Fair street near Fraser. He stopped to question the negro. The uniform sent the negro into flight. The chief pursued.

So hot got the foot chase, the negro dropped the package containing three gallons of whisky. The burdensome evidence removed, he managed to escape.

2 FLIERS KILLED; CRASH IN ESTATE

Pair Were Returning to Aircraft Carrier.

BROOKVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 20.—A navy biplane crashed into dense woods on a Long Island north shore estate near here today, killing two aviators from the U. S. S. Yorktown.

Occupants of the plane, bound from Squantum, Mass., to rejoin their ship at Norfolk, Va., were Lieutenant Stewart A. MacKenzie, who was dead when residents on the A. L. Smith estate reached the plane, and Aviation Cadet R. A. Schmidt, who died later in a Glen Cove hospital.

Lieutenant MacKenzie and Cadet Schmidt, both members of the famous Squadron 5 of the plane carrier, left Norfolk last Saturday. They flew to Squantum naval station, but on Sunday were detained there by bad weather and started their return flight today.

David Dows Jr., who witnessed the crash, said the plane struck several trees and a telephone and power line before crashing.

SEVEN SEEKING SEATS ON EAST POINT COUNCIL

Politics picked up in East Point yesterday with seven candidates in the field for seats on the city council in the city primary election scheduled for October 19.

Three seats will be contested among the seven candidates who had qualified with William S. Cox, chairman of the East Point Democratic executive committee.

Candidates were listed as follows:

First Ward—E. A. Sims, incumbent, and Richard MacKenzie, challenger.

Second Ward—J. Paul Eidsen, incumbent, and C. J. Barrett.

Third Ward—R. L. Branton, incumbent, and J. Henry Blair and W. Y. (Bill) Keeler.

NARCOTICS SALE CHARGED TO MAN

James Gloer, of Decatur, Held by U. S. Agents.

Charged with violating the narcotic laws, James Luther Gloer, 58, of Decatur, was held for grand jury investigation yesterday after arraignment before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith. Bond was set at $2,000.

Federal narcotic agents and city detectives arrested Gloer Sunday on Central avenue. He had one capsule of heroin in his possession at the time, the officers said. The arrest was made after agents had received information he was "peddling dope" according to testimony of Detective W. D. McGee.

Gloer's arrest was the first narcotics seizure in several months, according to officers. He has served several sentences for narcotic offenses, the last one being completed last July, agents reported.

1ST SQUARE RIGGER REACHES NEWPORT

Other Craft Has Chance To Triumph in Race.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The square-rigger Seven Seas tonight rode at anchor in Newport harbor, first to arrive in a two-vessel race from Bermuda, but the like-riggered Joseph Conrad, though unreported, still had a chance to win.

The Conrad, with a 24-hour time allowance, can triumph by reaching Newport before 8:45 a. m. (Atlantic time) tomorrow, although the Seven Seas crossed the finish line at Brenton Reef lightship this morning.

The Seven Seas' arrival, however, assured her one victory, formally received with the cup offered by the Bermuda governor general to the square-rigger which reached Newport first.

MRS. MARTHA MATHEWS PASSES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Martha Malinda Mathews, of Dallas, Ga., died at a private hospital last night. She was 47.

Surviving are five sons, Benoni, Waldo, R. D. Harold and Donald Mathews, all of Dallas; two daughters, Mrs. Stanley Cole and Miss Reba Mathews, Dallas; two brothers, J. W. Bailey, Ellijay, Ga., and J. M. Bailey, Chattanooga, Tenn.; four sisters, Mrs. A. P. Griffith, and Mrs. G. M. Turner, Chattanooga; Mrs. H. C. McDowell and Miss Dessa Bailey.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by West Side Funeral Home.

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

Department of public welfare of the fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs has arranged with the Fulton county identification department to give Tuesday of each week over the fingerprinting of members of the club.

W. A. Sutherland will address the Atlanta Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants this evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Sutherland is a member of the committee on taxation of the American Bar Association. The subject will be "Recent Developments in Taxation."

Ernest Rogers will address the Cubbers' Club at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Atlanta Gas Light building, 243 Peachtree street. The nominating committee will be appointed at the meeting, leaders said.

Elder C. N. Miller, of Washington, D. C., will preach at East Point Primitive Baptist church at 7:45 o'clock next Monday night, and at West Atlanta Primitive Baptist church at the same hour the next night.

North Fulton Parent-Teachers' Association is to meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at North Fulton High school.

Details of the "Background of the Present Chinese-Japanese Situation" will be discussed by Dillard B. Lasseter, state director of the National Youth Administration, at 12:30 o'clock today at the weekly luncheon of the Civitan Club at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Two speakers, Jim Parkerson, Villa Rica, and Orion Brooks, Decatur, will address members of the Kiwanis Club, observing "Farmers' Day" at 12:30 o'clock today at the Ansley hotel. Vocational students will furnish the music. W. Hill Hosch is chairman of the agricultural committee in charge.

Georgia's newly organized highway patrol yesterday registered its first case in Fulton courts as Patrolman J. M. Strickland, from Griffin headquarters, filed an accusation against Dewey Burgess, of Thomaston, for drunk driving. Burgess, arrested on Jonesboro road Saturday, just inside the Fulton county line, was placed under $100 bond.

Two candidates were left in command of the field for the office of state senator from Fulton county yesterday as Miles W. Baige, justice of the peace of the old ninth district, withdrew as a candidate in the October 20 special election, notice filed in the county ordinary's office revealed. G. Everett Millican and Paul H. Butler are left in the race.

WOMAN IS JAILED IN FIANCE'S KIDNAPING

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—(AP)—One-day jail terms were given today to a Newark, N. J., woman who admitted she kidnaped her former fiance for him to marry her, and a White Plains, N. Y., lineman who said he helped her. They were Miss Josephine Goldman, 29, and Edward Francis Marr.

NEVER NEGLECT YOUR FEET

No one should ever neglect the care of their feet. Feet of good health save a lot of misery. And here is something that does give real foot comfort.

Simply go to your druggist and get some Ice Mint. Use it for one day and see if this isn't the greatest little package of foot joy you ever saw.

Ice Mint prevents foot odors, keeps the feet cool and comfortable, relieves the stinging pain of corns and callouses and every person who has to walk or stand very much, surely will appreciate how good it makes the feet feel. Try it just once and give your poor, tired, aching feet the treat of their lives.

You will like the way Ice Mint works and the cooling comfort it brings to your feet; even a new pair of shoes won't bother you. Just one day's use will prove it.—(adv.)

ROTARIANS URGED TO SCORN HATES

'Make World a Little Sweeter,' District Governor Molnar Pleads.

T. T. Molnar, of Cuthbert, district Rotary governor, urged fellow Rotarians to "make the world a little sweeter and finer for the generation that is to follow" in an address yesterday at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Speaking on "What I As a Rotarian Would Do in the Next War," Molnar said he would put aside his hates if he were called upon to fight in another conflict.

"I would do everything in my power for my country, but I would not have any hate in my heart for any individual," he declared.

Recalling many of his war experiences, the Rotary governor said that he would want to be a gentleman if he were called into service again. "We can fight just as hard as we know how and yet be gentlemen," he pointed out.

Molnar was an officer in the Austrian army during the World War. He has since been commissioned as a major in the United States army reserves.

BEDDING COMPANY TRUCK IS RIDDLED

Shooting in Henry County Probed by Sheriff.

Two men in a passenger car allegedly "riddled with bullets" a truck laden with purchases from the Southern Spring Bed Company of Atlanta yesterday on the McDonough highway, just inside the Henry county line, Sheriff Louis Hightower, of Henry county, notified local police last night.

The truck, which had been escorted to the city limits by Atlanta Police Captain G. T. Butler, was driven by a negro, who was not hit. Employees of the company are on strike.

Sheriff Hightower said the passenger car was followed by another auto in which two white men and three negroes were riding, but they did not participate in the shooting.
